and Nazi Alibi

LONDON, March 9 (INS)—First Army troops who surged across the Rhine in one of the great military achievements in history simply rolled over an undamaged bridge, Berlin admitted today.

A German military spokesman, quoted by the Transocean agency, said:

"The American crossing of the Rhine near Remagen is the result of chance.

"The American troops discovered there a bridge which just happened not to have been destroyed. They brought weak forces across this to the eastern bank to form a bridgehead.

"Heavy fighting is going on north of the town of Linz on the eastern bank of the Rhine.

"German counter-attacks are being made against the advance detachments Gen. Hodges managed to bring across the Rhine near Remagen yesterday."

The Remagen bridge was used by the American Army of Occupation to reach the east bank of the Rhine after the last war.

Bridgehead 50 Sq. Miles

By JAMES M. LONG

PARIS, March 9 (AP)—The American First Army steadily enlarged its Remagen bridgehead in inner Germany today to an east bank wedge at least five miles deep and ten miles wide. Daring infantrymen of the Ninth Armored Division captured the double-tracked Ludendorf railroad bridge at Remagen and swiftly raced along its 1200-foot length to the steep cliffs of Erpel, 276 miles southwest of Berlin and 30 miles southeast of Cologne. Tanks quickly followed the foot troops, the men aware of the danger that the Germans at any second might blow up the structure.

WESTERN FRONT—Yanks by the thousands today poured across the Rhine at Remagen and fanned out behind armored spearheads which now have thrust into Linz after capturing Erpel at the eastern end of the Ludendorf bridge. With the Rhine river breached, the surprised Nazis expect a drive north (open arrow) to cut off the rich German Ruhr industrial area.

The Shermans reached the span at 3:50 p. m. Wednesday, it is possible to disclose for the first time tonight.

In a matter of seconds after the infantry company commanded by a Jersey City lieutenant, Emmet J. Burrows, had seized the Ludendorff bridge, the Ninth armored division was racing across and fanning out in all direction.

The great Ruhr basin was in imminent peril of being outflanked; the very heart of Germany was menaced.

Some explosions accompanied the Ninth armored division dash across the Rhine and caused slight damage to the bridge. Wires to explosive charges were cut swiftly before any more than superficial harm was done.

Repairs under German fire were started immediately.

Erpel, at the east end of the bridge, was swiftly overrun and the tanks and foot troops swarmed to the balsatic cliffs and over rolling green Rhineland hills beyond.

When night fell Wednesday, all roads west of the Rhine leading to the Ludendorff bridge were choked with trucks of troops and shells, tanks, self-propelled guns —every vehicle and weapon in easy reach. The steady stream of eastbound traffic going over the Rhine continued through the night, yesterday and today.

Only one-way traffic crossed the bridge for hours until a sizable force of inafntry and armor was across Engineers were repairing and strengthening the span—once termed more valuable to Gen. Eisenhower than Cologne or any other Rhineland city.

The buildup in the rolling green Rhineland hills was swift and under a protective cover of fighter bombers against resistance which the surprised enemy still had been unable to stiffen.

Great stores of military loot were captured in the bridgehead.

Some 30 fighter bombers flew a protective cover the bridgehead through the morning while medium and light bombers attacked railroad keypoints through which the Germans would have to move troops for a counterattack against the ominous foothold

The Germans claimed today that the American First Army had been halted before the castled east bank town of Linz, three miles east of Remagen.

Up to latest reports at supreme headquarters — covering action well into Thursday evening—the Germans neither had been able to rally enough strength for a

ACROSS THE RHINE, March 9 (AP)—A daring band of armored infantrymen, utterly ignoring the fact the 1200-foot steel road and rail bridge might blow up in their faces, raced across the Rhine at Remagen and saved the Allies the costly price of an amphibious invasion of inner Germany.

In a matter of seconds after a company of infantry, paced by Lt. Emmet J. Burrows, had seized the bridge—in the midst of explosions which caused slight damage—elements of the Ninth Armored Division fanned out on the east bank and carried the bridgehead.

That was on Wednesday. Civilians said the bridge was to go at 4 p. m. Tanks got there at 3:50 p. m.

Lt. John Mitchell of Pittsburgh found the cache of explosive and quickly disconnected the wires. Men were called up to start repair of superficial damage, while the bridge still was under fire.

That was how the Ninth Armored Division capped a Pattonesque tank dash from the Roer river to the eastern banks of the Rhine.

Maj. Murray Deevers, commander of the 27th Armored Infantry task force, which got the bridge, said it was strictly a gamble, and that none of the men had the slightest idea it would be so completely successful.

"I expected to see it blow up right in our faces," he said.

That had been the experience of the Allies in other bridging operations save at Nijmegen in Holland where American parachute troops teamed with the British and captured another bridge in much the same way.

U. S. Subs Sink Carrier, 11 Ships

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—United States submarines have sunk 12 more enemy vessels, including an escort carrier and a destroyer, in Far Eastern waters, the Navy announced today.

The announcement raised to 1057 the total of enemy vessels of all types sunk by U. S. submersibles, including 112 combatant and 945 non-combatant craft.

Non-combatant ships claimed in today's announcement included a large cargo transport, a large tanker, two medium cargo transports, five medium cargo vessels and a small cargo transport.

Chinese Hitting Back, Force Jap Retreat

CHUNGKING, March 9 (AP)—The Chinese high command said today counterattacking Chinese troops had successfully assailed Japanese positions seven miles west of Paoching, enemy stronghold 63 miles west of Hengyang, inflicted heavy casualties and forced the enemy to retreat toward Paoching.

Yanks Invade Mindanao Isle

By Associated Press

American forces have landed on Mindanao island after a heavy bombardment from a naval task force which included four battleships and 20 other craft, Tokyo radio said today.

Mindanao is the second largest island of the Philippines.

A Tokyo broadcast heard in London by the Associated Press gave this "flash":

"Enemy trying to land at Zamgoanga at Mindanao since March 8.

"The landing was preceded by a heavy bombardment. On March 8, in the morning, 30 enemy ships appeared from the west. Soon afterward three cruisers, four battleships, 20 other ships and 20 landing boats were lying off Zamboanga.

"In the afternoon enemy forces with one battleship and two cruisers appeared from the west and other forces, including two cruisers, approached Zamboanga from the east. Three cruisers appeared at Lecort and took Zamboanga and Lecort under fire. This gave the signal for the landing."

Tanks aided Marine infantrymen in knocking out "desperately" resisting Japs on Iwo Jima.

On Iwo the Third Division was 300 yards from the northeast coast and nearly a mile south of the northern tip of the airbase island, but by reaching the cliff had apparently effectively broken the defending force into two disconnected units. The Fifth Division, on the west, was about a mile from Iwo's northern tip. The Fifth, on the east, was held to limited gains.

Reds Gain 2nd Entry Into Oder Fortress

LONDON, March 9 (AP)—Troops of Marshal Zhukov in their offensive toward Berlin have fought into Kuestrin a second time, the Germans reported today, and a bitter battle is raging in the ancient streets of the Oder river fortress.

Russian tanks and infantry attacked 17 times from the northwestern part of the city—which the Germans said yesterday had been bypassed on the north and south by the Russians who had driven across the Oder to within 25 miles of Berlin—but were finally driven back to the suburbs, a German broadcast announced.

The Russians had not yet confirmed officially the crossing of the Oder — an announcement which would signal that the Allies in the east as well as in the west have joined battle with the Nazis in the heart of Germany.

To the north the Russians pushed forward from an arc eight miles southeast, east and northeast of Berlin's Baltic port of Stettin.

German Dragnet For Men 16 to 65

LONDON, March 9 (AP)—Germany today summoned everfy male in the Reich from 16 to 65 years of age to register with military authorities in a drastic effort to unscramble tangled army units and scrape up more manpower for defense.

Hinting at the confusion prevailing, a decree broadcast by DNB apparently had for its purpose the rounding up of deserters and the sorting out of soldiers lost from their units. It said:

"Many people have sought shelter in the interior of the Reich during the last few weeks. Workers and officials have lost their working places and soldiers were cut off from their units."

The decree then cancelled all furloughs except for reasons of ill health.

Beauty--and Death --At Rhine Crossing

By HAL BOYLE

WITH U. S. FIRST ARMY ACROSS RHINE, March 9 (AP)—Long columns of Americans were ploughing across the Rhine today—across to stay because the Germans blundered and gave up one of the least costly but yet one of the most important bridgeheads in military history.

There is rugged beauty at the site of this crossing—sheer bluffs and rolling green hills above the silver river. But that very ruggedness could have made this crossing site all but impregnable had the Germans been ready.

The narrow, winding roads to the crossing were jammed with military traffic. Patient infantrymen in jeeps traveled at snail's pace in drizzling rain. Military police sweated, shouted and swore at the traffic jams on every crossroad, but the doughboys paid little attention.

These were tired and muddy men in mud-spattered vehicles. They joked because all American soldiers joke in the shadow of danger. They knew they were going to cross the Rhine, and everyone wanted to be among the first, and they joked about this. But there was tenseness in this elation. They are certain the Germans still have a last effort in store and none of these Americans wants to get killed now, with victory so clearly in sight.

Even in such a historic event as the crossing of the Rhine, the infantrymen were resigned to the truth of that old Army adage: "Hurry up and wait."

The German civilians stare in consternation at the parade of American might, but they show little sympathy for their dead soldiery. These people are too sick of war and bloodshed to care much now who gets killed. They only hope dully the war will be over soon.

The crossing grew more dangerous by the hour. The German

GIs in Pacific Voice Gripes About Filmland's Epic

"More of These" Say Overseas GI's

By ROBBIN COONS

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam (AP)—Memo to Darryl F. Zanuck, 20th Century-Fox Studios, Hollywood:

This is for all of Hollywood, but I'm addressing you, Colonel, because somehow I keep thinking longingly of those wonderful, soft, colossal, reclining, red-leather easy chairs in your private projection room.

I've just completed an informal tour of the GI theater circuit in these American-held Marianas Islands. I've sat on hard wooden benches and on hard ground. So do all the customers, and I mention it because it proves a point: you have the most loyal, long-suffering, appreciative audience in the world out here. They'll gripe about some of the pictures, but 7 p. m. usually finds them crowding the theaters.

"I hear the picture's a stinker tonight. Let's go." You can hear that line in every Quonset, every tent, every night. Or: "It's a good one tonight—let's go early."

They have the most beautiful theaters in the world out here—outdoors. There's generally a breeze, too, sighing softly through the moonlit, shining trees and swaying the cocoanut palms—better than the best air-cooling system.

You'll be happy to know, colonel, that your "Keys to the Kingdom" scored a solid hit on Tinian. Some of the fellows called it the best movie they'd seen in years. The showing ended in a drenching shower, but only three guys left.

Your Moss Hart's "Winged Victory" had a so-so reception. Tinian is a big air base, and the customers had gone through the mill of aviation training themselves. They were all with you in the beginning—especially the comedy sequences—but they got off the train about the time that youngster, turned down for further training, broke down and cried in front of the air force board of review.

You may think that odd, for we back in the States all thought that a tremendously moving scene. Here the audience snickered, and some jeered.

What they want is escape, and that means musicals and comedy—especially with pretty girls. You send Betty Grable and Alice Faye and your new Vivian Blaine and June Haver along as often as you can. And Laurel and Hardy—they were on Saipan in "Nothing But Trouble" and it was a sell-out.

Name bands go well, too. Henry Busse's gang in "Lady, Let's Dance" got a hand—and Monogram's blonde Belita drew the ultimate tribute of reverent whistles.

The GI's always groan when that foreword about "old pictures to supplement the program of new ones" flashes on the screen. It's all right if the oldie is as funny as "His Girl Friday," but if it's a cluck, Hollywood makes no friends.

They don't like flag-waving and they don't cotton to "arty" photography. That "Yankee Doodle Dandy" which earned Jimmy Cagney his Oscar was a hit for its story and its music, but that "Grand Old Flag" number which stirred us back in the States was received with something like apathy—by fellows who are doing the bang-up job for the grand old flag.

And as for art, colonel, please light up your sets. At a showing of "Dark Waters," that Louisiana bayou yarn which is full of mysterious shadows, one GI convulsed the audience by striding up to the screen and turning his flashlight on it. "I gotta see what that goldarned movie is about," he cried—and hundreds cheered.

Man Is Crucified On Chicago Cross

CHICAGO, March 9 (AP)—A man was found crucified today with a crown of thorns on his head and a min or wound in his side. Police Capt. Patrick O'Connell said the man, identified as Fred Walscher, 43, was found nailed to a cross early today. The cross, of two by six timbers joined with new bolts, was fastened upright to a pillar of the Elevated railroad structure on the near North Side.

Ten-penny nails were driven through Walscher's palms and into the horizontal timbers. He was spread-eagled, but his feet, instead of being nailed as were Christ's, were supported by ropes; and the weight of his body was taken by a rope around his chest.

Thumbtacked to the head of the cross was a crudely-lettered sign—simulating the sign at Christ's head—which read: "Peace on earth—the brother of Jesus Christ. This good man is choosen (sic) in sacrifice by the noblest and greatest and finest inspiration for world peace. Let's all follow for the good of menkind (sic). God bless him, amen! By the unknown world controllers."

O'Connell reported on Walscher's head was a crude crown, fashioned of the thorny stems of a rose bush. A superficial wound of a razor or similar instrument, was found on the left breast. Apparently an attempt to simulate the spear thrust of a Roman soldier 1900 years ago.

Walscher was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, where Dr. Paul San Filippi reported his condition good. Later he was removed to the county jail hospital for observation.

O'Connell said he was dissatisfied with Walscher's replies to questioning, and said the man at first gave this account of his experience:

A man came to his basement bedroom about 11 o'clock last night and said there had been an accident at a neighboring intersection. Walscher went with him and under the structure two men with guns said "do you want to die for the war or for a world revolution?"

Walscher told them he would sacrifice himself only for his ideals, whereupon they nailed him to the cross and said they would kill him if he made noise.

O'Connell, said, however, the victim changed his story later, and finally refused to talk. Questioning of a brother, Frank, produced only a blank.

Police advanced these theories as to the motive:

A publicity stunt; a religious fanaticism in which Walscher was to be a human sacrifice in emulation of barbaric rites of paganism; a martyr complex in which Walscher offered himself to some cult.

"I've seen nearly everything else in my 30 years of police work," O'Connell said, "but I've never seen anything like this before."

Information on Walscher's background was sketchy. Police said he had been born in Austria, had come to America in 1921 and worked as a professional glass blower, more recently as a tavern porter.

Prediction of U. S. War With Russia Stirs Storm

BROCKTON, March 9—Dr. Leonard Spangenberg, editor-in-chief of Babson's Business Reports, stunned members of the Old Colony Advertising Club at the annual meeting here when he predicted the United States and Russia would be at war within 25 years.

Questioned by his audience, Spangenberg said the airplane age would bring the two nations so close together they would not be able to live with each other in peace.

"Within 10 years of the close of the present war," he said, "America will be sinking its battleships in an effort to balance the budget, and Russia will be preparing for war against us."

At the close of his talk, Spangenberg and his organization were denounced from the floor by George T. Keller, executive of the National Fireworks Co., Hanover, for making such a prediction while Russia is a war ally of the United Nations.

Keller also charged that Roger W. Babson, head of the organization which Spangenberg represented, was daily appealing to the American people for spiritual study to bring about world peace, and that the prediction of Spangenberg conflicted with the views expressed by Babson.

Spangenberg reiterated his assertion, and denied that the forecast of war with Russia was not only his personal opinion, but also that of the Babson organization.

He was asked whether his organization thought that Russia would join the Allies in the fight to defeat Japan and he replied:

"Russia will fight Japan with us only when we give her what she wants in lend-lease. Stalin will stall until he gets what he wants from us and then he will jump in with us."

He also stated that at the close of the present war there would be but two world powers, the United States and Russia, and that the British Empire was rapidly deteriorating. He answered another question by saying:

"Germany will be at the side of Russia in the war with the United States, and Britain, or what will be left of the British Empire, will be our ally."

Long Legs Help Ex-Shipping Clerk to Span Rhine First

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—Mrs. Doris Burrows, 24, is "positively thrilled at the news" her husband, Lt. Emmet J. Burrows, was the first soldier to cross the Rhine, but her sister knows how it was done.

"I'm not surprised as Emmet has such long legs—he's six feet tall," commented Burrows' sister-in-law, Gwendolyn.

Mrs. Burrows, who wept with joy at the news, said she was "happy to know Emmet is well."

She said her husband, a former shipping clerk in Manhattan, enlisted before Pearl Harbor and had been overseas for nine months.

They have no children.

Mrs. Burrows said laughingly she was surprised her husband managed to find the Rhine.

"He could never find anything," she said. "When I sent him out somewhere, even to the corner drug store, I had to write out the directions on a piece of paper. But he's finally found the east bank of the Rhine! I never thought he could find anything."

WEST POINT, Neb., March 9 (AP)—A German-born American soldier whose uncle was imprisoned in a Nazi concentration camp may have been the first American soldier to cross the Rhine.

He is Lt. Karl Timmermann of West Point, reported in frontline dispatches to have been among the first, if not the first, to cross the Reich's legendary water barrier.

Poor Goebbels

MADRID, March 9 (AP)—A copy of Das Reich, propaganda Minister Goebbels' newspaper, arriving here today, carried this plaint:

"We go to the barber's and find it not overcrowded for once. The barber starts to cut our hair with electric clippers when the electricity goes off and we must go home with only half a hair cut."

Hub Telegraph Strike Averted

More than 70 night operators of the combined Western Union and Postal Telegraph Cos. who had declared their intention of going on strike tonight in protest against what they considered wage inequities were temporarily dissuaded from doing so today by the regional War Labor Board.

Kenneth J. Kelley, labor representative of the board, prevailed upon the operators to report for work as usual tonight.

While disruption of telegraph service was averted, the operators protested that whereas they had from one to four years' experience, operators with only three months of experience were getting the same pay, about 55 cents an hour.

Secret in Berlin

LONDON, March 9 (AP)—The German high command kept from the German people today news that American troops have established a bridgehead on the east bank of the Rhine.

Mrs. Pat O'Brien in Hub

While film star Pat O'Brien is home in Hollywood minding the kids after a strenuous tour of entertaining the troops in the Far East, his beautiful wife, the former Eloise Taylor, is racing around the country at a dollar a year to sell more bonds for babies.

Here today to spearhead the Treasury's "baby" drive, her Boston beachhead is at the Statler. Her whirlwind activities include several broadcasts, meetings with bond-selling organizations and a speech this afternoon to 300 women of the Massachusetts finance committee.

Chairman of the women's division of the Los Angeles War Bond committee, she has already sold millions of these bonds for babies which are accompanied by Treasury certificates, decorated with popular Disney characters such as Mickey Mouse, Pinocchio, Donald Duck, the Seven Dwarfs, Bambi, etc.

Mrs. O'Brien, who is the mother of three—Mavourneen, 11; Terence, 8, and Shawn, 3, has thought up the slogan: "Buy a bond a month for the baby you love," and is trying to make it stick.

Hero Refuses Medal

No Commission, So Hero Sergeant Spurns Medal

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 9 (AP)—A 24-year-old wounded sergeant the Army wouldn't make a commissioned officer has declined to accept a medal for "leadership under fire."

He is Sgt. Joseph Kusaila of Waterbury, Ct., a patient in an Army hospital here, his right arm broken and partly paralyzed by a shell fragment.

He wrote a letter to Gen. Marshall saying the award of the Bronze Star Medal was "an ill-conceived sop to my conscience."

Kusala related the Officer Candidate School at Ft. Benning, Ga., "washed me out" as officer material on the contention he "lacked the qualifications of a leader."

Overseas, he continued, he led an assault against enemy positions when two officers deserted their men and "fled in terror" in the face of fire.

He said he and his group knocked out four German pillboxes and isolated a fifth, taking more than 50 prisoners. It was in connection with this incident that he received the Bronze Star.

The veteran painfully typed the 2500-word letter to Gen. Marshall with his left hand. He is an honor graduate of Columbia University and a former photographer's model.

In an interview he said most of the commissioned officers in the armed services are "brave and efficient."

A War Department spokesman in Washington declined to comment on the letter.

What's Wrong With This Picture?

Find Cambridge Girl's Mother Slain in Capital

Shaken by news her mother had been found mysteriously slain in her fashionable Washington apartment kitchen, Mrs. Dolores C. Mitchell of Humbolt ave., Cambridge, and her Harvard Navy instructor husband left hurriedly today on a morning train for the capital.

Her mother, Mrs. Nancy Boyer, 45, was found dead with two bullet holes in her head last night in the apartment in 16th st., Washington. She had not been seen by neighbors since Monday.

News of her mother's death came to auburn-haired, 20-year-old Mrs. Mitchell early today, shortly after she had returned home with her husband, Ens. Lyman Mitchell, USNR.

Near collapse and able to gain only sketchy details of the slaying, Mrs. Mitchell decided to leave on the first train for Washington.

The body of Mrs. Boyer, an attractive red-haired woman, was found last night slumped against the wall of her apartment kitchen in a dried pool of blood. Her suite was opened by the apartment house manager when friends complained they were unable to reach her by telephone.

The body was clad in a street dress and Mrs. Boyer evidently had been preparing a meal when she was slain.

Two bullet holes were found in the head, one behind and one above the left ear. A flattened bullet, which apparently had pierced her left index finger, was found on the floor. None of the wounds showed powder burns.

Deputy Coroner Christopher J. Murphy's report showed the dead woman had been beaten severely on the head and face before she was shot, but that a preliminary examination had not disclosed any signs of criminal attack.

Police said neighbors did not recall having heard shots or any disturbance in the apartment, but they pointed out the suite was soundproofed.

Both neighbors and apartment employes described the victim as a quiet, friendly woman who had few visitors.

Police said her slayer was apparently well known to the woman, as the apartment door was fitted with a peephole which would permit her to observe any visitor before opening the door.

There was no sign of a struggle in the apartment.

The victim's handbag, containing considerable money, was found in the suite and there was no evidence the place had been ransacked, eliminating robbery as a possible motive in the crime.

Police said Mrs. Boyer was estranged from her husband but declined to furnish any clues to his identity. She had been living in the apartment for about three years and apparently had plenty of money.

Police were puzzled over the name plate in the door, which read, "Lt. and Mrs. D. C. Mitchell and Nancy Boyer." They pointed out that the daughter's husband was Ens. Lyman Mitchell and that the daughter's initials were "D. C."

Mrs. Boyer was last seen alive by residents and employes in the apartment house lobby Monday afternoon.

3 Smith Girls to Prosecute Dealer in Tie-In Cig Sale

The three Smith College girls of wealthy families who took umbrage when a Northampton storekeeper allegedly refused to sell them a carton of cigarets until they bought a $5.50 "tie-in" package containing other goods will go after him in federal court here next week.

This was disclosed today by their counsel, E. L. O'Brien of Northampton, while the indignant trio and seven other Smith girls are brushing up on their rights under OPA tutelage in the Boston regional office.

Charles L. Foote, regional price executive, gave them a short course on pricec ontrol and rationing. Most eager of the listeners were the three girls who say they will sue the storekeeper for violating OPA regulations: Elizabeth W. Caldwell of Grosse Point, Mich.; Jean W. Lord of Philadelphia, and Jeanne Seidel of Larchmont, N. Y.

They and the others constitute a class in economics at Smith, taught by Stanley Ross, former regional economist for the OPA here, who acompanied the girls.

Miss Caldwell, Miss Lord and Miss Seidel assert they had to buy rouge, lipstick, powder, a cigaret holder and a wallet, in order to acquire the carton.

3 Gunmen Loot Back Bay Garage

Three armed bandits entered the office of Shore's Garage at 1260 Boylston st., Back Bay, early today, covered Manager Elmer H. Shore with their guns and demanded all the gasoline coupons he had on hand.

When Shore explained that the coupons were in a locked steel container, they forced him to lie on the floor, piled desks and other furniture on him and then attempted to force the container.

Frustrated, they looted the cash register of $100, took $5 from Shore's wallet and his own personal gasoline stamps. Then they picked a grey sedan, filled the tank and several one-gallon cans with gasoline and placed them in the car.

Warning Shore not to make an outcry, they drove the car out and disappeared toward downtown Boston.

2 'Teen-Agers Jailed For Cambridge Theft

Two teen-aged Roxbury boys pleaded guilty in Middlesex Superior Court today to charges of breaking into a Lechmere sq., East Cambridge, restaurant, and stealing a wall safe containing $396.

Robert J. Alfonso, 19, of Brookford st., was sentenced to 15 months in the House of Correction by Judge George F. Leary. His accomplice, James E. Coyne, 18, of Dewey st., received an indeterminate term in Concord Reformatory.

Robbing the Blind Gets Him 6 Years

Pleading guilty today to a charge of robbing a Winthrop blind man while pretending to be a Good Samaritan, Joseph A. Proulx, 26, of Prospect st., Cambridge, was sentenced to six years in Concord reformatory by Judge George F. Leary in Middlesex Superior Court.

Police Insp. Francis W. O'Connell said Proulx met Frank L. Taylor, 73, of Surfside ave., in a Cambridge tavern and offered to lead him home. On the way, O'Connell said, Proulx dragged Taylor into an alley, knocked him unconscious and took a money belt containing $45.

Taylor identified Proulx in Cambridge police headquarters by listening to his voice.

AUGUSTA, Me., March 9 (AP)—Sheriff Charles A. Watts said today he had arrested Royden V. Brown, veteran secretary of Maine's Senate, on a warrant charging "indecent liberties" with a 14-year-old Augusta boy.

Watts said the complaint was signed by John N. McAuley, proprietor of the State House cafeteria.

Watts said Brown would be arraigned in municipal court before Judge Arthur A. Hebert.

Brown has been Senate secretary more than 20 years. He is also judge of Skowhegan municipal court.

No. 1 Helps No. 2 Win Annulment

Sea duty prevented Seaman Harry M. Eikenberry from being on hand to testify for his petition for annulment but he was given a lift in Suffolk Probate court today by his wife's first husband.

The seaman's star witness, Augustus Christopher, of Huntington ave., Hyde Park, testified he married Mrs. Katherine Christopher in New Hampshire in 1942 and was unaware that she had wed a second time without benefit of divorce last fall until Eikenberry disclosed it to him.

"Are you the husband of Katherine Christopher?" he quoted the sailor as asking him.

"I told him I was and he answered 'So am I.'" Christopher testified.

Christopher said his wife was now living with him.

The witness said Eikenberry told him he had married her without knowing she was married and that she had used the name of her sister, Clara Arno. The sailor told him he became suspicious after overhearing a conversation between his wife and her girl friend.

Depositions were presented for Eikenberry and another sailor, Albrt H. Roush, and Judge John V. Mahoney granted the annulment.

His accomplices, James F. Everett, 17, and Paul E. Vezina, 18, both also of Lowell, pleaded guilty to similar charges and were placed on probation for two years.

Frank L. Welcome, 32, of Lowell, charged with receiving the tire and wheel, pleaded guilty and was given two years probation.

Hits 7c New Bedford Tire Plant Pay Boost

NEW BEDFORD, March 9 (AP)—A modified directive by the Regional War Labor Board calling for a seven-cents-an-hour differential for third shift workers, effective March 15, was received today by the management of the Fisk mill and the Textile Workers Union of America, CIO.

Antonio England, union director, described the directive as a "great disappointment," adding that third shift workers had expected the differential to be effective on the date of WLB approval more than two weeks ago.

Meanwhile, Paul N. Devine, WMC director, announced letters would go out today to the management of 10 fine goods mills ordering them to release 27 additional workers for interviews to take places of those unqualified in the second draft to obtain workers for Fisk and Firestone tire cord plants.

Of the 127 workers called for interviews this week, four accepted referrals and five did not report. The remainder have appealed and will be heard by a special appeals panel

F. D. Repeats Demand for Real Work Draft

By WILLIAM S. NEAL

WASHINGTON, March 9 (INS)—President Roosevelt expressed strong disapproval today over Senate action in adopting a voluntary manpower bill and renewed his demands for legislation to draft men for war production.

Mr. Roosevelt told his news conference he wanted something besides a voluntary system.

His views were revealed when he was asked which manpower bill he preferred—the House "work or jail" measure or the Senate voluntary system giving the War Manpower Commission control of job ceilings.

"Read my message to Congress," Mr. Roosevelt replied. Anyone can make up his mind, Mr. Roosevelt said, which bill comes nearest to his recommendations.

We need something besides a voluntary system of employment in the United States, the President declared. He added the nation was still short of men in war plants.

He said there was still a grave situation on the war production front and men were much needed.

In his last message on the state of the Union Mr. Roosevelt asked for national service legislation and the draft of nurses.

Congressional reaction to a national service act was cool and Mr. Roosevelt said later the May "work or jail" bill adopted by the House had his approval.

The Senate, however, turned thumbs down on the May bill and enacted a substitute sponsored by Sen. O'Mahoney (D.) of Wyoming, the 63 to 16 vote indicating strength of Senate opposition to the House measure.

What effect the President's views will have on the legislation will be determined when House and Senate conferees meet.

Spring Comes Early At Horticultural Hall

Cleveland Strike Ties Up War Work

CLEVELAND, March 9 (INS)—Approximately 2500 workers went on strike today at the two Cleveland plants of the National Bronze and Aluminum Foundry Co., bringing nearly to a complete halt the production of aircraft superchargers and Army truck parts.

Winchester Officer Tells Why He Fights

After 19 months in the hell of bloody battles for Leyte, Iwo Jima, Wake, the Marianas, the Gilberts and the Marshall Islands, Lt. Robert O'Hare of Richardson st., Winchester, returned home today very sure of what he's been fighting for.

His particular two reasons were there waiting for him, with stars in their eyes and arms outstretched: his wife and the 18-months-old son he'd never seen. Said Lt. O'Hare:

"My wife looks ten years younger than when I last saw her and is more beautiful than ever! And look at this strapping youngster—he's the handsomest kid in the world. "No one kicked them around and no one is going to—that's what we're fighting for—and all the other men on my destroyer feel the same way."

Home on 20-day leave, the young lieutenant, a cum laude graduate of Holy Cross, does not want to talk about the war, the Japs, or the 30 battles in which his destroyer fought. He can't stop admiring his wife, Dorothea, who looks 16, although she's 26, and he can't hear enough about the strength and charm of Robert, Jr.

"I'm starting right now to teach him how to protect his rights," he declared. "Out there in the Pacific we've seen what happens to people who can't protect themselves.

"Wait until we're all back—you won't find much hell raising on the part of the boys. What they want is to take a serious interest in our government and in the government of the world, so that no one will ever again get a chance to push helpless people around."

Lt. O'Hare is the son of William O'Hare, executive secretary of the Boston Public Welfare Dept., former penal commissioner and school committee member.

Death at Rhine Robs Hero of Commission

ACROSS THE RHINE, March 8 (delayed) (AP)—The saddest story of the Rhine crossing is the story of the young sergeant who didn't quite make it.

"He was one of the finest and bravest men we ever had," said Lt. K. P. Larson, Duncan, Okla. "Everybody liked and respected him.

"He had been recommended for a battlefield commission and word it had been approved had come through; but we were moving up fast and had a battle on our hands, so he was to have received his commission formally today.

"He was in one of the first groups to make the crossing over the Rhine."

Larson was telling the story in an old house serving as a command post and as he talked German shells were whistling overhead and exploding less than 100 yards down the road.

Just after one burst an officer came in, poured himself a small drink of Rhine wine from a bottle on the table and said:

"That last one killed one of our doughs moving up." The other officers nodded, but there just didn't seem to be anything to say. They all knew the next shell might have their own numbers on it.

"This sergeant," Larson finally went on, "was in front of his men guiding them across the river, when German ack-ack gunners in hill positions on the other side spotted them and turned their 20 millimeter guns on them. They're wicked things when used against infantry.

"The first one to catch it was the sergeant. He was killed. He never got his commission and he never lived to see what we did to the Jerries trying to hold us up."

Larson paused to take a gulp of wine, and then said hurriedly with that strange shyness men feel in expressing admiration for battle comrades:

"He was a good, hard-working boy. It hurt me to see him go."

Ohio River Crest Today 64.94 Ft.

PORTSMOUTH, O., March 9 (AP)—The flooding Ohio river crested here today, with the city still dry behind its flood walls and sandbag dikes.

The muddy waters touched a peak of 64.94 feet, 14.94 above flood stage.

Townsfolk labored through the night to strengthen a sandbag and earthwork dike stretching 2800 feet across the railway yards in the city's eastern section.

Reports from Marietta, far upstream, said the river there was falling at a rapid rate, and that merchants were returning to the flooded city block by block.

In Memphis, Tenn., the threat of a serious flood along the lower Mississippi river faded as river gauges indicated prospective crest low enough to be held by massive levees.

Motor Truck Ass'n Fights Gas Tax Boost

With what it described as "lower quality gasoline" causing breakdowns in equipment, the Massachusetts Motor Truck Ass'n said today truck operators cannot remain in business if the state advances the state gasoline tax another cent, as proposed in legislation advocated by Gov. Tobin.

"Truckmen are operating on a narrow 2 per cent margin between the black and red ink," the association said in a letter to legislators.

CIO Chief Raps 'Failure' of OPA

WASHINGTON, March 9 (INS)—CIO President Philip Murray charged today that divided forces, within and outside the government, are hindering the fight against inflation.

Testifying before the Senate Banking Committee at a hearing on extension of the Stabilization Act, Murray said:

"With V-E Day probably only weeks away, divided counsels within the government and outside are delaying and defeating preparations of plans to meet the crisis we shall face.

"The OPA is steadily raising prices and adding to extortionate profits.

"Recent actions by former Economic Stabilizer Vinson have completely frozen the War Labor Board and prevented it from functioning."

Calling for immediate wage increases, the labor leader denied they would be inflationary.

Hingham today became the second of Greater Boston's 45 communities to top its goal in the 1945 Red Cross War Fund campaign. The town nearly doubled its $38,000 quota in reporting subscriptions of $63,319. Sherborn was the first town to go over the top.

Receiving the report from Arthur M. Russell, Hingham war fund chairman, Phillips Ketchum, general chairman of the Red Cross drive, lauded the town for realizing "the full import of Red Cross services in this most crucial of war years."

The War Fund received an added boost today with announcement that William Filene's Sons Co. has contributed $20,000. This sum includes subscriptions from the store's branches outside of Boston.

Errol's Merry-Go-Round Centers on One Word 'No'

HOLLYWOOD, March 9 (AP)—Errol Flynn seems to be one gent who doesn't have to bite a dog to get into the news.

The latest episode in Errol's stirring career boiled down today to this conclusion:

Someone apparently pulled a hoax on him with a rumor that his wife, red-haired Nora Eddington Flynn, had given the signal for divorce proceedings.

Result was that Nora denied it in Mexico City; her stepmother here said the same; Flynn's secretary professed ignorance, and Errol himself was so irritated he sat down and, with his own hand, wrote out a statement announcing he wouldn't say anything about anything. He didn't, either.

Just to play the thing safe, though, it should be reported that even Errol Flynn doesn't try to predict his unpredictable self.

Events late yesterday had their amusing side. Flynn flew into town, into a dither, and then to his hillside estate.

Errol refused to come out or invite newsmen inside. His secretary, Jim Fleming, relayed messages—all saying "No"—and then a Flynn proclamation complaining that he had been "badly misquoted in the past" and wasn't talking.

Finally permission to use the telephone inside was granted, but it was in use. Fleming said Nora's stepmother was calling Flynn.

Later Mrs. Eddington confided: "Errol said if any newspapermen showed up, he had a shotgun waiting for them."

How We Took Span

most into paralysis when the import of what had happened dawned on them.

Two prisoners were taken on the bridge itself.

Within two hours hundreds of other prisoners were laying down their arms and confusing the situation by cluttering up the position on the east bank while it was still barely a foothold.

White flags, already flapping along the entire route of the Ninth Armored's pellmell drive, began to appear in Erpel on the east bank.

The inhabitants here, with the Rhine moat protecting them, had made no move toward evacuation.

A German medic came out of town and surrendered to Chaplain William Gibble of Henryetta, Okla., and asked him to come and take the whole town. Gibble did.

He found 600 German wounded and a few Americans in the hospital there.

A Rhine barge had the misfortune to come on the scene at an inopportune moment and the Americans took the craft and crew although the Americans were so busy they had no time until hours afterward to remove the crew as prisoners.

Word that Brig. Gen. William Hoge's Ninth Armored had the Remagen bridge and was clambering to the opposite bank spread like wildfire throughout the front lines.

Before nightfall roads leading to Remagen were alive with weapons and vehicles of every description. It might have been a rehearsed display of American armed might.

Hundreds of tanks and guns, truckload after truckload of infantry chattering excitedly over the suddenness of the event, were heading for the scene.

Some of the tanks did not even wait to cross the river. They poked their snouts in the air and blasted the Germans from the street. The din was terrific, coupled with the roar of field guns on the hilly west bank. Residents of Remagen, terror-stricken, fled to the open country — back to territory already cleared by the Americans.

Ack ack guns began popping up here and there like weeds.

But 36 hours after the bridge was won, German bombers still had not appeared over the bridgehead.

Only one-way traffic was possible over the bridge in the early hours, but after a sizable force of armor and infantry was across engineers started repairing the structure.

The Germans by this time had begun shelling the area, though the steep cliff at the eastern end made it difficult for them to bring their fire directly down on the bridge.

The highway on the German side of the Rhine forks out at a right angle and the railroad disappears into a tunnel.

Ike Praises 1st

WITH U. S. FIRST ARMY ACROSS RHINE, March 9 (INS)—The entire Allied invasion force is "delighted to cheer the First Army, whose speed and boldness won the race to establish a bridgehead over the Rhine," Gen. Eisenhower said in a message of congratulation to Lt. Gen. Courtney B. Hodges, First Army commander.

"Please tell all ranks how proud I am of them," the commander-in-chief said.

RAF, U. S. Fliers Blast Kassel

LONDON, March 9 (AP)—The German industrial city of Kassel, heavily bombed by the RAF last night, was attacked again today by the main force of a 1000-bomber fleet sent out by the U. S. Eighth Air Force.

In — night raids the British also h... submarine building yards in Hamburg and unspecified objectives in Berlin. German radios began warning of the approach of daylight bombers shortly after 8 a. m.

big gun fire, sporadic though it may be, took its toll.

The Yanks streaming toward the crossing site can see a procession of American ambulances going in the opposite direction—the victims of the fight on the east bank.

An officer in an open jeep holds a woman's umbrella over his head with one hand to keep off the rain while he studies a map. Several soldiers forget the somber things to come, for the moment, and wear silk top hats found in bombed-out ruins. Veterans stretch out in trucks and catch some badly needed sleep.

As the column crawls through a village near the river your notice for the first time the doughboys standing watchful-eyed in doorways. You know then German shells have been bursting near by.

The road curves slowly down from the last tree-crowned hill and as it turns suddenly you see an open space criss-crossed by empty German trenches. There is one, small, knocked-out German anti-tank gun. Then, around a bend, with shocking suddenness you see the Rhine itself in all its majesty, sweeping in sinuous beauty as far as the eye can reach among the rounded hills and high cliffs.

"There she is!" shouts a soldier.

Every man in the long column looks out at this magnificent river, whose life-giving beauty and productivity has caused immeasurable grief throughout centuries of war. Beyond its spring-flooded waters lies the way to Berlin and victory and home.

A German shell crashes into the crossing site far below, where hundreds of tiny men and tiny machines work their way across the river. Seconds afterward the noise of the shellburst echoes up.

As the column winds slowly down the steep hills hundreds of doughboys spaced 20 feet apart begin trotting in double columns toward the crossing point. More shells crack and explode in black towers of debris.

On the other bank infantrymen crouch as they move forward into battle.

"It won't be long now!" a doughboy calls out.

fighting stand nor to get enough troops to the danger point for serious counter-attacks, although three small ones were mounted.

Front line correspondents made this clear: The bridgehead was secure. It was constantly receiving streams of reinforcements. The Germans were confused. Opposition was light and desultory at first. Three counter-attacks, launched when the Germans realized what had happened were repelled. One counterblow forced the Americans back 500 yards from a command post, but the First Army veterans reformed and threw the enemy back.

At Remagen the Ludendorf railroad bridge crosses the river, more than 1000 feet wide, under the shadow of the 626-foot Erpeler Lei basaltic cliff where a memorial to Count Zeppelin stands.

The east bank of the Rhine at Remagen rises abruptly beyond Erpel in the hill country just south of the Ruhr. A super-highway through Erpel links with the Ruhr road network to the north.

Remagen is 30 miles south-southeast of Cologne and 20 miles northwest of Coblenz.

No great German cities lie immediately beyond Remagen, but a drive eastward would flank the great Ruhr basin. A smash northward would overrun its cities and war factories which near the start of the conflict supplied Hitler with three-fourths of his arms. A drive southward up the Rhine would encircle the whole Saar industrial district and the Palatinate.

German resistance collapsed in the huge Eifel mountains pocket between the First and Third Armies as hemmed in divisions broke from their lines and raced for the Rhine.

The Third Army was shelling Coblenz and was last reported four miles away. Reports many hours late placed probing tank columns of the First and Third Armies only 15 miles apart south of Remagen.

The British, Canadian and U. S. Ninth Army whittled down the violently defended Wesel bridgehead to the north and captured Xanten, fabled birthplace of Wagner's Siegfried.

Bonn was in its last hours of Nazi rule as the First Division crashed through its ancient streets to the Rhine, where the enemy blew a bridge.

First Army troops east of the Rhine were in the Westerwalde, where wooded hills rise 2000 feet. The terrain is tough and obscured. So far as is known, no fixed fortifications such as the Siegfried line and Atlantic wall, or fortress cities like Metz, Nancy, Verdun and Caen lie ahead. German positions are believed to be largely old-style trenches, scattered pillboxes, blockhouses and the like—with little steel and concrete.

Meanwhile Patton's aggressive Third Army overran two-thirds of the Coblenz plain and seized Miesenheim, 15 miles south of Remagen. With the First Army, he was rapidly forging a trap on perhaps 50,000 Germans caught in his audacious plunge to the Rhine near Coblenz two days ago.

The exploits of the First and Third armies constituted one of the greatest victories in the career of Lt. Gen. Bradley, commanding the 12th Army Group. He had administered a rapid succession of defeats to Marshal von Rundstedt, including the crossing of the Roer, capture of Cologne and now the Rhine crossing and the possible destruction of five or six German divisions caught between his armies, commanded by Lts. Gens. Hodges and Patton.

The 76th Division of the Third Army drove two and a half miles northeastward on a five-mile front, capturing Gladbach, Burg and Landscheid, up to 15 miles northeast of Trier. Other Third Army troops gained two miles eastward along the north bank of the Moselle, capturing Schweich, six miles northeast of Trier, after heavy street fighting.

The Third Army announced it had captured 16,992 Germans and buried 1395 between March 1 and 8. The Ninth Army took 456 yesterday and the Canadians carried 749.

Vet Flag Honor

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—A family or organization service flag may now carry a symbol to designate an honorably discharged veteran, the War Department announced today.

The symbol, based on the same design used on the lapel button for a discharged veteran, will replace the blue star which represented a man or woman in service.

The design will be in gold color with blue edging to make it stand out on the flag's white background.

New U. S. Army, 15th Under Gen. Gerow, on Rhine Front

NEW YORK, March 9 (INS)— A new American Army—the 15th —has gone into action on the Western Front, National Broadcasting Co.'s reporter David Anderson disclosed at noon today in a special broadcast.

"It has just been announced the new American army—the 15th—is now on the continent," Anderson said "the new army is under the command of Lt. Gen. Leonard P. Gerow.

"This announcement was made in conjunction with a ceremony held this afternoon at Gen. Bradley's command post," Anderson continued, "when four Army commanders—of the 1st, 3rd, 9th, and 15th armies—the commanding general of the 8th U. S. Air Force and the First Allied Airborne Army as well as Gen. Bradley, were presented with high French military awards for their participation in the assault on and liberation of France.

"The new 15th Army will be part of Gen. Bradley's 12th Army Group.

"The revelation of the existence of a new powerful American army on the continent comes at the most critical time, psychologically and militarily, for the Germans. It means anything new on the east bank of the Rhine can be exploited without fear of jeopardizing our positions along an extended front."

S. Boston to Hear Invasion Chaplain

Capt. Robert J. White, senior Roman Catholic chaplain of the U. S. Navy, who is to be principal speaker at Evacuation Day exercises in South Boston High School Sunday evening, is author of "The Prayer Before Invasion," which was recited by thousands of men of many faiths as American forces landed on the south coast of France Aug. 15 last.

A native of Concord, graduate of Harvard College and Harvard law school, former assistant district attorney of Middlesex County, Capt. White has had a colorful career.

Before entering the priesthood he served as a commissioned officer in our World War I Navy and was awarded the Legion of Honor by France.

Following his ordination, he was elected national chaplain of the American Legion, and from 1934 to 1937 served as American representative to the Congress of Allied Veterans.

Fr. White is dean of Catholic University law school.

He has just completed 15 months' active service as chief of Navy chaplains in the Mediterranean area.

He is scheduled to arrive in Boston tomorrow on seven-day leave. Following his Sunday evening speech, he is to be guest of Mayor Kerrigan for much of the remainder of his stay here. Fr. White is one of Cong. McCormack's closest friends, and it is upon invitation of the South Boston leader that he is to participate in the exercises which are to open a week-long observance of the March 17 holiday.

Veterans Lose Vast Insurance

WASHINGTON, March 9—Veterans of World War II have forfeited more than $11,000,000 in insurance premiums by allowing policies to lapse beyond the time they could be readily reinstated without new medical examinations, American Legion officials said.

The lost millions, paid by the veterans while they were still in the armed forces, remain in government coffers, the Legion emphasized, and the veterans' families no longer have the security of the low-cost National Service Life Insurance.

To prevent the sacrifice of additional millions in premiums paid in, the American Legion, in co-operation with private life insurance organizations, is conducting a nation-wide campaign to urge veterans to reinstate their federal policies at the earliest moment.

The veterans administration, actively aiding in the Legion campaign, has pointed out that many men leaving the service are no longer physically able to pass examinations for non-government life insurance.

Veterans with dependents should never permit their national service policies to lapse for even a temporary period, the Legion asserted, and single veterans should be equally alert to keep them in force because they will eventually have families and de-

Pity the Lot Of Poor Tourists

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—If winter sojourners in Florida really want a train ride home to the North or East they might try the day coaches.

Tanned fugitives from winter weather are crowding Florida depots trying to arrange train reservations, an irritated official of the Office of Defense Transportation reported today.

"We certainly don't intend to put on any special trains to get them back," he declared. "They shouldn't be off on pleasure jaunts. But they'd probably get home quicker by forgetting the idea they must travel de luxe and take their chances on the coaches."

Youth Today Shows Interest in Fine Arts

Prof. Mervyn J. Bailey, head of Boston University's fine arts dept., rounding out 25 years at the college of liberal arts, stated that "our grieving pessimists, convinced that the younger generation has gone completely to seed and has sacrificed love of the finer things for jive, will be astonished to learn that today there is greater interest in the fine arts than ever before."

End the War VICTORIOUSLY
Make the Peace PERMANENTLY
Bring Our Boys Home PROMPTLY

WE MUST STOP BRUTALITY

SOMEWHERE right here in Massachusetts, even while this editorial is being written, a pet dog—the loyal, faithful, almost human companion of your child or your neighbor's child—is being horribly butchered by a brute masquerading as a vivisectionist.

The poor little animal, whose only fault was that he loved and trusted mankind too much, is being literally cut to pieces, from wagging tail to lapping tongue.

Every nerve in his tiny body cries out in the excruciating agony.

But the brute goes on cutting, slashing, hacking.

There is no anaesthesia, no sympathy, no mercy.

Only outraged Nature and death can put an end to the sadistic debauchery, and then there will be another animal—some other child's stolen pet—for more experimentation.

Such barbarism will continue and increase until the Legislature arouses itself and passes HOUSE BILL NO. 1250.

This measure, wholeheartedly approved and supported by all persons who believe in kindness to animals, does not prohibit scientific vivisection.

It merely restricts and regulates it, just as the medical profession itself is restricted and regulated in the interest of humanity and decency.

It obliges persons indulging in vivisection to be REPUTABLE, RECOGNIZED and RESPONSIBLE men of science.

It curbs and restrains only the sadists, the brutes and other depraved individuals who derive devilish delight from pain surreptitiously inflicted on the weak and helpless.

AS WE POINTED out several days ago, a law similar to House Bill No. 1250 has been on the statute books of England for many years without the slightest harmful effect on the medical profession of that country.

Penicillin, the wonder drug which even the advocates of vivisection are hailing as one of the greatest achievements of the age, was an English discovery.

Thousands of our soldier sons, wounded in the battles of this war, will be returned to us, sound and healthy, because of what the English scientists have accomplished without stooping to the degradation of promiscuous vivisection of the type still tolerated in the supposedly enlightened Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

The English are in thorough agreement with the late Robert G. Ingersoll who more than fifty years ago wrote:

"Vivisection is the Inquisition—the hell—of science. All the cruelty which the human—or rather the inhuman—heart is capable of inflicting is IN THIS ONE WORD. Below this there is no depth. The word lies like a coiled serpent at the bottom of the abyss."

WE CANNOT as yet go so far as Robert Ingersoll and the millions who share his humanitarian views would have us go.

BUT WE CAN PROTECT OUR CHERISHED PETS — OUR FAITHFUL DOGS AND FAMILY CATS — FROM THE THIEVES WHO SELL THEM TO BRUTES FOR UNSPEAKABLY CRUEL EXPERIMENTS IN CELLARS, ATTICS AND HIDDEN LABORATORIES.

WE CAN DO IT AND WE MUST DO IT BY PASSING HOUSE BILL NO. 1250 WITHOUT FURTHER DELAY.

Let us have the names of the Senators and Representatives who think it proper for living animals to be tortured by anybody and everybody in the alleged interest of science.

Let every dog owner, every cat owner and every person who detests cruelty and loves mercy watch HOUSE BILL NO. 1250.

It is the means by which the individual legislator's capacity for good in this fundamentally merciful State will be tried and tested.

As for a little woman
If love will let you win her
There's not a joy in all the world
You will not find within her.
As within the little rose
You find the richest dyes,
As in a little grain of gold
Much price and value lies.
As from a little balsam
Much odor doth arise
So in a little woman
There's a taste of paradise.

ABOVE IS IN response to request of a U. S. Marine sergeant for a poem to send to his "cute little trick" wife who is four feet ten inches in height and weighs 92 pounds . . . Wish I had the records of the Nenana, Alaska, icebreak. A Seattle girl named Julie wants to bet me a box of Havana cigars against an album of jazz records that she can come closer to naming the time of the Nenana icebreak than I can. She says the ice will break April 29 at 4:21 p. m. Well, I'll take a chance without consulting the icebreak dope sheet. I'll say the ice will break on April 24 at 1:26 p. m.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS. Q—The second lieutenant, a California climate booster, says the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap has never been run on a muddy track. How about it? A—I believe the track was a little muddy when Bay View won the Santa Anita handicap in 1941 . . . Q—Suppose the man in the drug store says if you want a package of cigarets you have to buy something else? A—Sounds like an OPA violation to me . . . Q—Do you find it difficult to write a column? A—I find it difficult to write anything. As I sit at my typewriter to punch out this daily pillar of palpitating prose I often think of what Charles Lamb said: "O, the corroding, torturing, tormenting thoughts that disturb the brain of the unlucky wretch who must draw upon writing for daily sustenance."

HOBBLE SKIRTS: Recently there have been many films based on happenings in the yesteryear and in which the feminine players have been attired in the quaint fashions of the period. But I have yet to see a film in which the heroine wore a hobble skirt. I think the Hollywoodians have overlooked something there. Scenes with women wearing hobble skirts might produce hilarious comedy for ZaSu Pitts or Patsy Kelly.

He is 30 years old and a graduate of West Point, class of 1938. Incidentally, the colonel is a wonderful looking fellow. Just as good looking as some of the Hollywood glamor boys who have been playing war hero parts in films.

CARLISLE INDIANS: Bemis Pierce, formerly of the Carlisle Indian football team and one of the greatest linemen of all time, is head gardener at the Sherman Indian school in Riverside, Cal. I wonder what became of Frank Mt. Pleasant. What a football player he was! I never played against the Indians but a pal of mine who played for Penn State often told me of the very busy afternoon he had playing against a huge member of the Carlisle Indian team named Afraid-of-a Bear. Maybe you think I am making the name up. If you do, ask Jim Thorpe about it. He played on the same team as Afraid-of-a-Bear.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: When the racetracks were completely shut down, the night club maestros took the news with marked complacency. Now that the night clubs are only partly closed, their owners are screaming, whining and shrieking about "the rights of free men," etc. . . . As for wages paid unskilled feminine labor, I am informed that in Seattle unskilled girls are earning $40 to $50 a week pounding nails in wooden boxes. The wage scale for this activity is $1 an hour for 40 hours a week and $1.50 for every hour over 40.

SNOW: When a child in dear old Southern Brooklyn, one of my dreaded tasks was to shovel snow off the sidewalk in front of our house. That was a tough job after a blizzard. Much snow has fallen since my dreary boyhood days as a reluctant snow shoveller but men and boys with pained expressions are still shoveling snow off New York and Brooklyn sidewalks. What I would like to know is this: Why hasn't some mechanical genius invented a sidewalk snow plow? A man owning something like that could make enough money in midtown Manhattan in the winter to keep him in luxury the rest of the year.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

IN THE LIGHT of Judge Phillip L. Sullivan's decision that the seizure of Montgomery Ward's property was a lawless act, let us refer to a gratuitous statement by Frank P. Graham, ostensibly a "public" or impartial member of the War Labor Board, on Dec. 17.

Westbrook Pegler

The very designation "public" member reveals a serious fault in the spirit of government these days for all government officials should be "public" officials. That is to say they should be impartial and just. Yet we have "labor" Senators and Congressmen and Mr. Biddle, the Attorney-General, has announced, in effect, that the Roosevelt government is a "labor" government. That means that the Roosevelt government is partial to unions which are subordinate groups of his political party and in just that degree, is unfair to the rest of the nation.

To be sure that is democracy majority rule. But it is not equal justice under law.

MR. GRAHAM denounced Montgomery Ward, a private citizen, so to speak, and taxpayer, for "blasting at the foundations of maximum production" and spoke of the "no strike" agreement of "patriotic labor."

An impartial member of this board, if he felt called on to make any statement at all, might have felt that fairness required him to recall that the "no strike" agreement of patriotic labor had been violated by thousands of strikes, which had blasted "at the foundations of production" in works vitally essential to the war.

On the other hand, Ward's actual connection with such production is slight, if not wholly imaginary.

Mr. Graham then described the maintenance of membership shop and said that a man already in the union had 15 days in which to resign. Having resigned he still could keep his job.

An impartial and well-informed person here might have observed, however, that even in some vital war plants unions have been guilty of suspicious frauds in their elections. It is within their power to throw in the waste-basket resignations offered in good faith and then to insist on the discharge of those workers by denying that their resignations were received and accusing them of delinquency.

MR. GRAHAM said Ward would make paramount with the global war a disruptive internal conflict between capital and labor. That makes the company's management look unpatriotic when it is not and the charge is made by an agent of the government.

The fact was, however, as the court later agreed, that the conflict was not between capital and labor but between law and lawlessness. The government was acting in a lawless manner and Ward was insisting on his rights under law.

James Byrnes, director of War Mobilization, also attacked Ward in an affidavit and the Army moved in by order of President Roosevelt, executed by the Secretary of War.

The Army seized the company's private property, including its receipts, and made disbursements, including wages, according to the decisions of the War Labor Board. It has just as much right to take the money out of your pockets.

By now we have the President, the War Labor Board, the director of War Mobilization and the Army, itself, all arrayed against a citizen defending his rights. He may not be a popular citizen but neither was Capt. Dreyfus.

THE ARMY, of course, is not "public" in the sense of impartiality. The President is commander-in-chief and all the officers are obliged to obey his orders and uphold him in his contentions. An officer might have some vague and theoretical legal right to criticize an order given to him by authority of his commander-in-chief, but this simply is not done. If Ward, in such a notorious case, could be so abused, a mere Army officer, even a general, of whom we now have hundreds, would stand no chance in a guardhouse argument about his rights.

Examining the situation now, we find the Army enforcing an illegal order to uphold a "policy" of a government which is admittedly partial to Ward's opponent in a case at law.

The Army, too, has propaganda services whose duty is to justify the Army's position which in this case violates a citizen's rights.

The Army is, in practical effect, the client of its own propaganda specialists and obviously will suffer no criticism at their hands.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 9—The "Cole Porter" movie is back in the Warner work shop for a rewrite job which leaves Cary Grant with enough time on his hands to make an outside deal. Maybe you think the bids aren't falling to the right and left of him! The hottest, and the one that would make him the happiest, is to do "Notorious" with Ingrid Bergman for Alfred Hitchcock at the David Selznick studio—and what a team Cary and Ingrid would make!

Of course, there are plenty "ifs" before a contract could be signed—the most important being if Cary can get the permission of other studios that have a prior claim on his services. But he's anxious to get back to work, which is understandable. He hasn't made a picture since "None but the Lonely Heart," his Academy Award contender.

PHILLIP REED, the tall, dark and handsome who has bought dinner for Barbara Hutton a couple of times since her parting from Cary Grant, has landed himself a good movie job. Just released from the Navy, he steps into the romantic lead in "People Are Funny," the Pine-Thomas picture, with Jack Haley, Frances Langford and Rudy Vallee. The girl in Phil's movie life will be Helen Walker, the charmer who just walked out of her Paramount contract. Now her first picture on the "outside" is another Para movie—on account of Pine and Thomas release through that company.

THE PRESIDENT has been sent a formal letter by the city of Los Angeles inviting him, Winston Churchill and Joseph Stalin to visit Los Angeles after they finish their conference April 25 at San Francisco. It seems likely that a representative group from Hollywood will go to San Francisco to meet the delegates from all over the world. Bob Riskin, who is with the OWI, will probably arrange the motion picture end, although formal invitation to the President was sent from the mayor's office. It is believed that these three world-famous delegates will come to southern California.

WALTER REISCH, one of M-G-M's top writers, will be on Billy Wilder's staff when Billy goes to Germany to take over the theatrical end for the Allies. Walter has resigned, to hold himself in readiness to join Billy. He, too, is of German descent, and speaks the language fluently. When the OWI was considering a man to head the theatrical division in Germany, only two names were discussed—Ernst Lubitsch and Billy Wilder. But Bill was chosen because he is younger and Ernst's health is not as robust as it used to be, and this isn't an easy job.

A letter from Mickey Rooney, who tells me he is happy that he's going to be a pop. The letter was dated Feb. 4 and was sent from somewhere in Belgium. He says it is a pleasure to work for such swell audiences and he asked me to say hello to every one of his pals in Hollywood. Mick's getting awfully formal in his letters. He used to call me Toots—now he calls me Miss Parsons!

YOU DON'T know Don de Fore yet, but you will after you see him in "Affairs of Susan." He not only is a personable young man, but has a damn good actor. IF YOUR BOY is on Iwo Jima and you're worried about not hearing from him, send writing paper. The boys have no facilities for writing, but they'll write if they can. Margaret Ettinger took off 10 years of worry when she heard from her son, Sgt. Gordon Maynard, who is with the Fifth Marine Division. Gordon said it looked like rain and he had to keep his foxhole because he knew if it rained he'd become a mud pie, he was so dirty. "What I'd give for a bath," he said, but it was really a cheerful letter. Jack Campbell, managing editor of the Herald Express, was also a relieved parent. He received a letter from his son, Jack, who is with the Marines on Iwo Jima. Young Jack, who is one of the nicest boys in our town, said things are looking better.

She'll confer with Ripley and Monter about her late son's book; Dick Foran and Chili Williams are an every night item it seems at the Beverly Tropics; Andy Russell has taken three boxes at the rodeo Sunday for his brothers and sisters—there are 11 of them; Martha Raye is the latest actress to turn author. She is writing a book to be called "From Hand to Mouth"; Rita Corday, RKO actress, has had the first word of her father, Marc Croset, in two years. He was in Shanghai, attached to the Swiss embassy, when the Japs moved in; Maurice and Franklyn King, who made a picture based on the life of the bank robber and notorious gangster Dillinger, have been offered nearly a million dollars by a major studio for their movie rights. NEW YORK, March 9—Leo Durocher's new reason for having his tie and sox match is Ann St. George Thompson. Lex's ex . . . At least the Broadway crowd is having fun identifying them . . . Whoever runs against Los Angeles' present district attorney will win strong backing from the film industry. His lack of "co-operation" in the Hall-Dorsey, Chaplin and Flynn cases have the movie moguls after his scalp . . Athalia Ponselle, the Powers charmer, has switched from Dr. Duren MacIntosh to Ken McSarin, the Main Stem playboy . . . Magician Russell Swann, tired of having his male assistants (nine of 'em) drafted, played safe recently by hiring a girl assistant, Betty Lewis. Safe? She joined the WAVES last week . . . Carole Landis has been rushing from backstage to bedside all week to be near Horace Schmidlapp, who has a temperature of 104—even when she isn't around.

Perhaps it's intended to convince customers that they can see double before midnight. Gloria Vanderbilt tossed herself a farewell party the night before she left for Reno to shed Pat DeCicco . . . Model Candy Jones, currently globe-girdling for the USO, writes home that her "most sensational suntan in the world" is caused not only by the tropical sun, but also by the drug they give you to ward off malaria. It makes the skin a lovely milk chocolate color . . . TWO SPEAKEASIES have opened on Park ave. . . . "Miss America" (Venus Ramey) turned down a part in a Broadway show because the role involved a strip tease . . . Marilyn Curtis, Eddie Cantor's daughter who is doing very well as a night club thrush, has begged her famous pop not to come and see her. She says those sad brown eyes staring at her would break her up . . . Jimmy Durante and his ex-partner, Lou Clayton, are having serious conversations (or as serious as possible, considering the conversationalists) about teaming up again. They've been a big hit in the benefits they've done together . . . Tallulah Bankhead says she's never worked so hard in her life as she does in "Foolish Notion," which keeps her popping in and out of beautiful costumes all evening.

Boston After Dark

SOMETHING which may be mentioned now in connection with racing—always an interesting subject even at such times as the present when it is not particularly timely—is the tinge of irony presented by the possibility that former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy (et al) may be purchasers of the Suffolk Downs stock-control . . . Before the Aldred Investment Trust bought control of the stock from the Adams-Wetmore-Mrs. Tomaselo combination, Mr. Kennedy had made an offer to the Messrs. Adams and Wetmore . . . The offer was made through then Police Commissioner Joseph F. Timilty . . . Mr. Timilty was disappointed keenly when the control passed to the investment trust, (Gordon B. Hanlon and his associates.)

THIS department was tipped to the Kennedy-Timilty offer and went directly to the former police commissioner for corrobation . . . Mr. Timilty admitted the truth of the story, and in his customarily straightforward manner of treating with the press gave permission to quote him to that effect . . But he countered with a request that we consider the possible re-action to an item which would have presented the popular former ambassador in the guise of an unsuccessful bidder for a comparatively small enterprise. (Mr. Kennedy has dealt in business of real magnitude, including a couple of motion picture companies) . . . Due perhaps to Mr. Timilty's eloquence, the story that a Kennedy offer had been rejected seemed to serve no real purpose . . . The deal had been made, and that was that.

THE FACT was—however—that the turn-down depressed Mr. Timilty . . . FOR HE WAS UNDER THE IMPRESSION (he said) THAT HIS OFFER TO BUY THE CONTROL IN SUFFLK DOWNS HAD BEEN ACCEPTED UNDER A "FIRST REFUSAL" BASIS . . . He believed, in other words, that the Kennedy-Timilty interests had been promised a chance to meet, or raise, the best offer received by the Adams-Wetmore faction for their stock-holdings . . . We hear authoritatively that Mr. Kennedy, with a block of Hialeah stock in his safe testifying to his confidence in race-tracks for investment—intends to be very much in the sales-picture when the Suffolk Downs financial fate comes around to the settlement stage . . . And yes, we know that denials accredited to him have appeared very recently in the public prints of this, his hometown—or the town of his nativity, to be more precise.

WASHINGTON — ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: It was interesting meeting—with Michael J. Ward, chairman of the Boston school committee—that eminent citizen and writer, George Creel . . . George now is on the staff of Collier's, and it would have been nice if everybody could have read his story on foreign relations in the Jan. 6 edition of his magazine . . . In World War I, George Creel had much the same capacity of Robert E. (Bob) Sherwood in this one . . . George was ghost writer and press agent for Woodrow Wilson (as Robert is for FDR) . . . Mr. Creel made known that three (3) Army and three (3) Navy personnel (enlisted) handled public relations duties in World War I . . . The multifold same duties in this fracas are being handled by 400 enlisted Navy and Army personnel, with one (1) major general and one (1) vice admiral in command.

SORRY WE ARE LATE: From Cpl. T. (Teddy) J. Moran, U. S. A., in the Netherlands East Indies, comes a letter which is untimely only in the fact that by now the subject of the letter (and the corporal's affections) has recovered from the operation . . . "Would it be amiss to ask your readers," Cpl. Moran begins, "to drop a friendly, encouraging line of cheer to youthful Dotty Myles at the Mass. General Hospital? . . . She is to undergo a plastic surgical operation . . . She is the brave little girl who was severely burned in the Cocoanut Grove fire two years ago and since then has been fighting her way back with great courage and determination . . . As you know, Dotty resumed her singing career recently on the "Melody in the Sky" program . . . This operation will determine whether she ever again will sing in public . . . At 17, when she was a victim of the the fire, Miss Myles was on the threshold of a highly promising career . . . Dotty is our particular pin-up girl . . . In fact a huge bomber named "Dauntless Dotty" is named in her honor . . . How about you and your readers giving this nice kid a deserving pat on the back and letting her know that you are in her corner?" . . . (We wish this pat on the back—for we echo the corporal's sentiments throughout—could have been given before the operation. But notes addressed to Miss Myles care of this column will be forwarded to her.)

Yalta Serenade

By George E. Skolsky

MR. ROOSEVELT has said that the Polish settlement was not to his liking. His exact words were:

"The decision with respect to the boundaries of Poland was quite a compromise. I didn't agree with all of it by any means . . . It was a compromise."

Well, confession is good for anybody's soul. Now the radio commentators who splurted themselves into swift and furious justifications of the Yalta Polish settlement can know that even Mr. Roosevelt is not a little ashamed of that transaction. My hat is off to Mr. Roosevelt for making that clear!

Imagine the picture: Here are three men—the holy alliance—who sit in the Livadia Palace in Yalta where once the Czars of Russia with their ladies and lovers disported themselves in the winter months. These three men are bargaining over the lives and happiness of hundreds of millions of men and women and children of countless generations to come. The only witnesses are their own servants.

ONE OF these men is a British aristocrat, conservative, imperialistic, proud, the most heroic political figure in the war. But he heads an empire that has grown weak economically and politically. Its manpower has long been used to the limit; its principal resource is now the treasury and industry of the United States. His hand is robust but his purse is bare. At a bargain, he sits with empty hands and high hopes.

Another is the scion of an old and notable American family, a courageous personality, charming as a prince; full of the enthusiasms of youth; strong in the control of a nation rich in manpower, resources, wealthy, energy and initiative, yet so anxious to achieve a world state that he, proudest of the proud at home, submits himself and his country to European snobbery; idealistic in expression, yet trickily political—perhaps the most complex personality in the world today.

THE WASHINGTON SCENE, omitted for a few days owing to the illness of George Dixon, will be resumed Monday next.

The third is an Asiatic from Georgia. Not a Russian, he rules with all the trappings of a czar, a Peter the Great, an Ivan the Terrible. He is master of all he surveys and his purposes and motives are single and clear. He is accountable to no one. He is achieving the ambitions of a long career. For 28 years, he has sought to control Europe; he will not bargain away that prospect. Where he sits is the head of the table. He lets fall a not too large nor too juicy crumb.

He knows that the other two must return to account for their actions as best they can. He need account to no one. Churchill must ask for a vote of confidence; Roosevelt must have his treaties confirmed by a Senate. Stalin can nod yes or no—and whoever objects must die.

* * *

HE KNOWS that the others are serenaded by public opinion, that while they speak to him, they hear the chant of dissatisfaction, the plaint of the disillusioned, the cries of the disappointed, the tears of the wounded, the hopelessness of those who love liberty.

But to him these are but the howlings of the useless, the human surpluses, the slaves running alongside the chariot of the victor.

Nobody wants the war prolonged an additional hour. Nobody wants to strengthen the enemy or weaken the arms of our own children. Yet, as those three men listened to the serenade of forgotten peoples in this sad world, perhaps they heard this Polish chorale:

"Out of our suffering
Out of our sadness,
Father, our voices rise up to Thee.
Weary our hearts are not to have gladness,
Wretched our souls are not to be free.
Long have we praised Thee with lamentation,
Crowned as with thorns, how long is the way!
Grant us Thy comfort, Thy consolation,
Hands to Thee lifted, thus do we pray.

"—and the teacher said, if my arithmetic was better, I'd have the best report card in the school. DADDY helped me with my arithmetic!"

Feel Good, Look Lovely

Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

SUPREME back interest is displayed in the full boxy jacket with crenulated yoke inset of black crepe which dresses up this intersting ivy print ensemble of grey and black on pale blue background. The jacket motif is repeated in the dress beneath it for double effect and is as heart-warming as the anticipation of spring itself. The scoop brim black felt hat accents this frock from the couture collection of Stein and Blaine.—R. M.

FRAZZLED NERVES, taut muscles belong to the past. It's our duty and privilege to feel charming, to look lovely, and to be tops at all times both mentally and physically. This year will be one of the most history-making in our lifetime. Let's make it as important in health and in beauty.

To feel well, to look well and to have an abundance of energy to meet the demands of wartime living . . . doctors tell us that a certain amount of relaxation is a MUST each day. With time at such a premium . . . where can we find the necessary moments for rest . . . the relaxing period that settles our nerves before we tumble off to slumberland?

Relax in the bath. Instead of making it a hurried cleansing . . . spend an extra five minutes in that ritual. Use refreshing toiletries that have a long-lasting fragrance . . . that set the leisure scene that relieves the tension.

We don't often write of a bath oil . . . since so many women like to pick their own. But when such a bath oil as the one we use is so grand . . . we just can't let its praises be left unsung. Its fragrance is delightful . . . its softening effect on the water superb . . . and its bubble-invoking prowess so powerful that swimming in the myriad of soapy bubbles is a climaxing joy after a busy day. This kind of a bubble bath is more than a Hollywood setting . . . it's a reality.

Then, too, some bath oils leave a ring around the bathtub necessitating extra back bending to remove its tell-tale mark. And in days of doing-your-own household chores . . . even this little extra work is too much for the too busy woman.

But this delight-drenching bath oil is superduper of the first order. It does NOT leave a ring around the bath-tub . . .

Your bathroom is permeated with its refreshing loveliness . . . and you emerge a renewed woman from its invigorating joy . . . with sparkling eyes . . . liveliness of spirit . . . a body softness like down.

For the name of this unusual bath oil, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THIS MAY BE the latest in bathtub scenes from Hollywood . . . for sheer bubble bath beauty and delight . . . and for the subsequent relaxation so needed these busy days . . . we heartily favor an unusual bath oil that freshens the body and the spirit . . . and does NOT leave a ring around the bathtub. Paramount Starlet Barbara Slater is the beauty who rests in this tiny tub full of fragranted bubbles.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Thursday—In talking to my press conference yesterday, the women seemed very much interested in the gifts which had been presented to me in the course of the past few years. This seems to me very natural, since I have always been interested in gifts which were presented to the wives and children of our former Presidents.

In describing the interesting gift of an old jewelled crown which the President brought back to me after his trip to Casablanca, I was unable to give the exact title of the gentleman who presented it to my husband. He is his Sherifian Majesty, Sidi Mohammed, the Sultan of Morocco.

I have always felt a little sorry for any lady who had to wear a crown, but the one who wore this one would carry a heavy weight on her head as well as in her heart.

It is a beautiful and interesting piece of decorative work, however, and always attracts a great deal of attention when young people visit the library at Hyde Park.

The ladies of the press asked if some day we would show some of the costumes, and I will try to do so.

AT NOON YESTERDAY Mrs. Hugh Butler's two public-speaking classes came in to demonstrate what they are going to do in speaking for the Dumbarton Oaks proposals. There are a number of wives of Congressmen and Army and Navy officers, as well as a good many members of the League of Women Voters, among them.

I think it is grand of these young women to take the time for these courses in order to do a constructive piece of work, and I was much impressed by the very effective way in which they spoke. If they are any sample of the young women of the present day, our ladies are going to be a great addition in the world of public speakers.

IN THE AFTERNOON Miss Ruth Winchell came in to play her accordion for a group of men from the naval hospital, and we had a very pleasant time together.

At 5 o'clock I went to the broadcasting station to speak to the women of the Soviet Union.

Rich Brown Popular

By BETTINA BEDWELL

BROWNS are important in the spring styles and they are usually rich, medium or light browns that look very springlike. While brown is not a mass color like navy or gray, for instance, it is a color that quite a lot of you are going to find more flattering than any other. So you might consider it when you pick your easter outfit.

Particularly nice and smart are outfits that combine brown with a printed material having some brown in the pattern. Such an ensemble is the one from Louise Barnes Gallagher sketched here by Miss Dulin. The short loose coat is warm tabac brown wool, and the two-piece dress is brown and white printed crepe. The printed material lines the coat, and is set in the front in narrow bands. The dress is encrusted with cutout motifs from the print, making a charming trimming. The pattern is a page boy design.

Letters to Servicemen

When you write to a man in the service, keep high in your mind and heart the sound advice given by the Red Cross: "Too many times the folks at home put forth petty family problems in letters to their boys fighting at the front. The result in many cases is the demoralization of a brave soldier. So the next time you write to GI Joe be cheerful, and if you cannot be cheerful, be factual. A demoralizing letter, whether intentional or not, can be as damaging to Uncle Sam's armed forces as an enemy bullet." MRS. BEECKMAN.

Cheese Rice with Creole Shrimp

Cheese Versatile

By MARTHA LEE

WAKE UP jaded appetites during the Lenten season by serving a variety of unusual and savory meat-substitute dishes which include full-flavored American-made cheese. Cheese is a versatile food with a wide variety of flavors that blend well with nearly any kind of food. A full-bodied Cheddar cheese, better known as American, is ideal for cheese sauces, escalloped or au gratin dishes.

This new version of creole shrimp is served with carefully cooked rice to which golden, freshly grated cheese has been added.

CHEESE RICE WITH CREOLE SHRIMP

1 cup grated cheese
4 cups cooked rice
1 cup sliced onions
1 cup diced celery
1 small garlic clove, minced (optional)
3 tbsp. butter or meat drippings
1 tbsp. flour 1 tsp. sugar
½ tsp. chili powder
½ cup diced green pepper
2½ cups cooked tomatoes
1 tbsp. lemon juice
2 cups cooked shrimp

Cook onions, celery and garlic in butter until tender. Add flour, salt, sugar and chili powder. Add green pepper. Stir in tomatoes and lemon juice and cook about 10 minutes over low heat. Add cleaned shrimp and heat thoroughly. Meanwhile blend grated cheese with hot, cooked rice and place in a buttered casserole, leaving the center to be filled with Creole Shrimp. Arrange shrimp mixture in center; sprinkle with grated cheese and place under broiler until cheese melts. Makes 6 servings.

BAKED MACARONI AND CHEESE

1 pkg. macaroni
2 cups medium white sauce
1½ to 2 cups grated cheese
½ cup bread crumbs, buttered

Boil macaroni; put in greased casserole in alternate layers with sauce and grated cheese. Pour white sauce over top and cover with buttered crumbs; bake in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) for 20 to 25 minutes, or until crumbs are browned. Spaghetti may be used in place of macaroni. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

CHEESE OMELET

4 eggs, separated ½ tsp. salt
Dash of pepper ¼ cup milk
1 tbsp. butter or margarine
2 tbsp. chopped parsley
⅛ tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
¼ cup grated cheese

Beat egg yolks until thick and light; add seasonings, cheese, milk and chopped parsley; fold into stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into buttered, hot 9-inch frying or omelet pan and cook over low heat for 3 to 5 minutes, or until omelet puffs up and is browned on bottom. (Test by raising edge of omelet with spatula). Place in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 10 to 15 minutes, or until top springs back when pressed with finger. Cut about 1-inch incisions at opposite sides and crease down through center in line with cuts; then fold carefully on crease by slipping spatula under half of omelet to fold over. Slip on to hot platter and garnish with parsley; if an omelet pan is used, merely fold over; omelet will shrink slightly when removed from pan. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

WELSH RABBIT

1 tbsp. butter or margarine
2 tsp. salt 2 tsp. dry mustard
1 tsp. paprika
1 lb. soft cheese, sliced thin
½ cup beer 6 slices hot toast

Melt butter, add seasonings and cheese, and cook over low heat, stirring until cheese melts. Add beer gradually, and continue to cook over low heat, stirring until mixture is smooth. Add more beer if thinner mixture is desired. Pour at once over toast. Makes 6 servings. (Add a dash of cayenne if desired.)

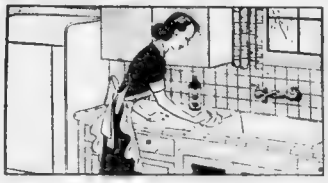
YOUR spotless kitchen and bathroom, your freshly laundered linens may actually be "danger zones." They can look innocently clean, yet in reality harbor germs, a possible menace to your family's health. Ordinary cleansing of such "danger zones" is not enough. Added sanitation is needed. And Clorox is extra efficient, because it is ultra-refined, free from caustic, an exclusive patented quality-feature.

You can't see them but they're often present, even in spic-and-span bathrooms. For added health protection use Clorox regularly in cleansing your bathroom.



"Danger Zones" in the Kitchen! Make sure kitchen sanitation is not slighted, for infection dangers can spread rapidly. High standards of sanitation are easily attained with Clorox. It disinfects, deodorizes, also removes stains from dishcloths, china, glass, tile, enamel, linoleum, wood surfaces; it destroys mold; reduces risk of food spoilage.

Chandler Demands Alaska Be Fortified

By RAY RICHARDS
Boston Evening American, Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, March 9—Sen. Albert B. Chandler revealed he had approached high War and Navy Dept. officials with the proposition that all needed military bases in the Alaskan sector be raised to a maximum potential strength while this war is on so that Russia cannot interfere with such an action by protests after peace comes.

The bases have been developed to nowhere near their full potentiality as yet, Sen. Chandler said, yet they would be perhaps the only effective bastion of defense against any assault from Asia in coming years.

The Senator added he had reminded the Army and Navy executives of the political probability that Russia in the future will be the only great "opposite number" to the United States in the Pacific area.

"Japan is dying, and a regrettable but implacable trend of events is denying China her chance to be a first rate nation," the Kentuckian said. "But adroit Russia is making the swiftest of progress toward the position of the sole great power that will sit across the Pacific from us."

Sen. Chandler is a member of the Senate military affairs committee, a frequent official visitor to Alaska, and one of the group of United States senators who toured the world battlefront in 1943. He said.

"Our national prospects require frank and fearless discussion right now of the fact that in a future war no attacker from Asia will come the long way around across the Pacific but will take the short great circle route across Alaska which, for instance, could land air forces smack in Detroit."

Sen. Chandler remarked that the alliances of this war will vanish with the peace.

"Naturally," he said, "appearances require we have a lot of meetings like Dumbarton Oaks and the coming San Francisco session to mull over the dream of perpetual peace.

"Let us help these worthy ventures, but let us not, with childlike faith, place all our eggs in those baskets."

Vets' Board Needs Help in Washington

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—The Veterans' Administration is appealing for workers willing to come to Washington.

Reporting an increase of more than 300 per cent in the volume of its work between February, 1943, and December, 1944, Veterans' Administration said a shortage of workers was seriously handicapping its operations. Employment increased only 14 per cent.

Shortly after the daily total was made public, an additional $71.25 was forwarded to the fund by Edward J. Lucas, secretary-treasurer of the Boston Cab Ass'n. The money represented cotnributions from cab owners.

Woman Driver Fined In Fire Truck Crash

After deliberating four hours, a Suffolk Superior Court jury returned a guilty verdict today against Mrs. Tillie Lieberman, 35, of Intervale st., Roxbury, charged with operating to endanger as a result of a collision between her auto and a fire department ladder truck.

A fine of $25 was imposed by Judge J. Arthur Baker.

Vatican Partly OKs Stassen World Plan

By MICHAEL CHINIGO

VATICAN CITY, March 9 (INS)—The Vatican voiced partial approval of Com. Harold Stassen's plan for maintaining world peace and expressed hope that Stassen's proposals would be so shaped at San Francisco that the right of all nations, great and small, will not be impaired.

The Vatican secretary expressed the belief, however, that the plan appeared somewhat harmful to the sovereignty and autonomy of all nations.

The Holy See would substitute a world court of arbitration, in which all nations would praticipate on an equal basis, in place of the proposed world government with legislative, judicial and executive functions.

The Vatican secretary took particular exception to the legislative and executive prerogatives on a permanent basis since that might lead to the creation of a supersovereignty not compatible with the teachings of the church.

Recalling the Pontiff's Christmas Day broadcast, the Vatican secretariat advanced the suggestion that a world court of arbitration should be compelled to examine all trespassers of neutral laws and international pledges and agreements.

The secretariat said the church would countenance use of force against such transgressor nations as would not react to persuasion.

Finally, the secretariat recommended that guilty nations be given an opportunity to enter the world court or arbitration after a punishment period, since "it cannot be admitted that nations must continue to suffer once the responsible leaders have been punished—nor should whole nations be punished for a generation's crimes really committed by a few."

The Vatican applauded all other points of Stassen's plan, such as the American Credit Reservoir, as a contribution to the world's well being.

St. Patrick Mail Response Heavy

When Postmaster Patrick J. Connelly made the public suggestion that it would be a fitting St. Patrick's Day gesture if citizens mailed greeting cards for transmission to St. Patrick, Mo., to be postmarked and returned to the addressee, he started something.

So great has been the response, with thousands of letters and cards pouring into the Boston postoffice, that he announced today such cards and messages would be received until Monday noon.

Only a three-cent stamp is required for each letter or card, and mailers may send money for postage instead, so that the postoffice at St. Patrick may receive credit for the postage.

Probe of Rent Gouging Opens

A force of 12 OPA investigators began a thorough probe today of complaints that wives of servicemen were being preyed upon by rent gougers in the Beacon Hill vicinity and other sections of the city.

William F. Riley, eastern Massachusetts area OPA rent control director, made the announcement his office was investigating the charges that persons hiring rooms or apartments, especially servicemen's wives who acquire temporary lodgings to be with their husbands before the latter go overseas, were being charged exorbitant rents.

Riley said the victims could help themselves by demanding to see the registration of the landlord or landlady and the OPA ceiling prices which must be posted in every room.

Lou, Bud at Their Best

By PEGGY DOYLE

A greedy but engaging oyster nips a sequence from the little, round man in "Here Come the Co-eds," but through most of the going Abbott and Costello have their chortling RKO-Boston audience in the palm of their hand.

PEGGY RYAN and LOU COSTELLO
"Here Come the Co-Eds"

For too long, Universal's overworked comics have been repetitious and strained in their efforts to corner laughs.

In this, their latest chore for Universal, they are at their best since those long-agone days when their tried-and-true burlesque shenanigans were fresh, funny and first-hand to suddenly idolatrous film fans.

They're in the groove again n "Here Comes the Co-eds," wherein they go academic, but never, as a horsefly would know, over your heads. There's some business about a fixed girl's basketball game, with Costello in there making baskets for our side in a goldilocks wig and Maewest-padding. It is to win a bet and pay off the old school mortgage. It all comes out clean in the finale.

That ravenous, stewed oyster interlude alone is worth the price of admission.

Longo Resigns Post at Loew's

Joseph F. Longo, advertising and publicity director for Loew's State and Orpheum Theaters, has resigned to accept from Terry Turner, exploitation head for RKO Radio Pictures, an important post as field representative of a southern area.

Joseph F. Longo

He leaves next week for his new duties with the well wishes of many Boston friends. In addition to his public relations job with the Loew's, organization, Longo was associated for nearly two years with United Artists, representing this company in the western part of the country.

Born and educated in Boston, Longo has been identified with the industry's advertising, publicity and exploitation field for nearly 10 years.

BLOOD AT IWO JIMA

The bloody hell of Iwo Jima is now being shown on most intown screens, in addition to the regular programs. In the film, "Battle for Iwo Jima," shot by Navy, Marine and Coast Guard cameramen and released through News of the Day Newsreel, the public sees the clearest and most coherent of any of the battle documentary movies yet filmed.

Thriller on Fine Arts Bill

By MARY X. SULLIVAN

Slowly but steadily the Fine Arts Theater is building up a clientele for foreign films again in Boston, and the current bill at this pleasant and comfortable theater is one which should hasten the process.

"32 Rue Montmartre" is a murder mystery film, but quite different from most of our recent American-made thrillers. This one puts the emphasis on the Paris "Grand Hotel" angle rather than on building suspense concerning the murder case.

The sophistication of the French motion picture as compared with our Hollywood products, is especially marked in the Gallic cynicism of the dialogue. Even though the English subtitles are reduced to Americanese that is at times pretty awful, it makes our films seem naive.

The story centers around the murder of the proprietress of an apartment house, and the resultant inquiry by two detectives who are pretty corny characters; here the French have borrowed from the earlier Hollywood product. But in the assumption of the police that everyone has something to hide, therefore it is quite safe to arrest practically every tenant, they go very French.

There is the respected judge, father of a family, whose extramarital affair is revealed; the cocotte protesting her love for her patron while her gigolo lolls on the chaise; the various rackets and grafting dishonesties that go on in this house . . . and the amused assumption of the detectives that of course it is natural, makes one wonder if this germ of cynicism was not actually responsible for the sad fate of France.

The companion feature, "La Belle France," is an interesting contrast. It is a travelogue of sorts which will bring sharp nostalgia to anyone who had the good fortune to travel or live in France in the years before the war.

Sports Will Benefit by U. S. Crossing of Rhine

By JACK CONWAY

THE CROSSING of the Rhine by Lt. Gen. Hodges' American First Army has shortened the European war by months, and will do much to bring about a quick victory over Germany. This means among other things that sports like baseball, football, horse racing and boxing will soon return to normal in the United States. This writer has contended that a complete triumph over the Nazis would do more than anything else to give sports the green light.

Government officials must be conservative in regard to the statements they issue until Germany has been beaten. Last fall there was too much optimism in the announcements from high places with the result there was a general letdown, and the Germans succeeded in scoring a breakthrough. In war, as in sports, one must keep going with 100 per cent effort until victory has been gained. Overconfidence often results in defeat.

John Quinn

Baseball owners, managers and other prominent sports figures are secretly optimistic about the outlook, but it would be unwise for them to make any public utterances on the subject until Germany is out of the war and millions of American service men are once more making arrangements to come home from overseas.

The war with Japan is expected to last well into 1946, but the defeat of Germany would release enough manpower and transportation facilities to enable the sports program to be built up.

Boston Baseball Plans

GENERAL MANAGERS John Quinn of the Braves and Eddie Collins of the Red Sox are prepared for the opening of the spring training of their clubs. The Braves begin training at Georgetown University on March 18, while the Sox start their sessions at Pleasantville, N. J., six miles from Atlantic City, on March 15. It is expected that each club will have sufficient players on hand for the opening to guarantee some practice games.

The Braves and Sox have agreed to give the receipts of their Sunday city series game on April 15 to the Red Cross. The rival clubs should be in good condition by that time, and with a fair break in the weather they should draw a large crowd.

The record gatherings at the Ice Follies, and the large crowds at the Bruins and Olympics hockey games, at the boxing bouts and wrestling shows indicate that the public is as sports minded as ever. The attendance figures should soar as the caliber of the competitions gets better.

Horse Racing by June

IF THE crossing of the Rhine is the signal for the knockout punch against Germany, and I believe it is, there should be horse racing by June. Jimmy Byrnes has made it quite clear that when the ban is lifted on racing the sport will be permitted at all tracks.

This means in New England that the sport of kings will be allowed at Suffolk Downs, Narragansett Park, Rockingham Park, Pascoag, Marshfield Fair, Brockton Fair, Topsfield Fair, Great Barrington Fair, Northampton Fair and at the Maine Fairs.

The ending of hostilities in Europe will present many problems. There will be an urgent need of jobs and of taxes. Racing can help fill these gaps.

Once horse racing is permitted, the ban will also be lifted on dog racing.

There will still be the job of defeating Japan, but with the full fury of the Allied fighting forces concentrated against the Japs I look for the war in the Far East to move very swiftly. The war program in the Far East is running ahead of schedule, while it will probably set new records when Germany has surrendered.

British Honor Johnny Spillane

NEW YORK, March 9 (INS)—The British government has awarded Cpl. John Spillane its Distinguished Service Medal for his gallantry at Tarawa, where the Marine hero and former baseball player lost his right arm, it was announced officially today.

Spillane, who lives in Waterbury, Ct., and who turned down a shortstop's contract with the St. Louis Cardinals to join the Marines, now is on a Navy morale tour.

The letter to Spillane, signed by H. V. Markham, read:

"I am commanded by My Lords' Commissioners of the Admiralty to inform you that they have learned with great pleasure that on the advice of the First Lord, the King has been graciously pleased to award you the Distinguished Service Medal for outstanding gallantry, initiative and devotion to duty shown in Tarawa during reconquest of the Gilbert Islands."

It was understood that Spillane will be decorated at the British Embassy when he returns from his tour. Last fall he was a guest of the New York Journal-American at the World Series in St. Louis.

Cochrane-Robinson Bout for Chicago

CHICAGO, March 9 (AP)—A 15-round title bout between Freddy (Red) Cochrane, welterweight champion, and Ray (Sugar) Robinson, No. 1 contender, will be held here sometime in June.

Matchmakers Jack Hurley and Jack Kearns said Cochrane, recently discharged from the Navy, had agreed to defend his title against the New York Negro.

Priddy of Yankees Arthritis Victim

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 9 (AP)—Sgt. Gerry Priddy, former infielder for the New York Yankees and the Washington Senators, is a patient at the Army and Navy Hospital here suffering from arthritis.

Priddy, who broke into organized baseball with the Rogers Club of the Arkansas-Missouri League in the '30's, became ill a few months ago in Honolulu.

Cochrane Will Defend Title Against 'Sugar'

CHICAGO, March 9 (AP)—Freddy (Red) Cochrane has agreed to defend his world welterweight championship in a 15-round bout against Ray (Sugar) Robinson, if Robinson is not inducted into the Army, in Chicago some time in June, Jack Hurley, Chicago Stadium matchmaker, said last night.

Somerville Hoop Champs in Bench Scene Before Tech Tourney Win Over Quincy

By MIKE GILLOOLY

It seems that year in and year out, you can depend on the Tech Tourney to produce at least one surprise—and at least one underdog choice of the fans. This week has been no exception. That's why North Quincy High, a dark-horse selection will be jumping into the semifinal round of the Eastern Mass. Basketball championships against Somerville, defending champion, in the Class A featured pairing tonight at the Garden.

For it was North Quincy High that won over the record New England basketball crowd—9440 paid admissions—in its opening test when it tripped Newton, 22 to 17.

This semifinal round will have the usual four games. In Class B, the two tilts will pit Fairhaven against Braintree and Belmont against Winthrop. The other Class A grouping will find undefeated Haverhill tangling with an aggressive Brockton outfit. Winners will clash tomorrow night in the finals for crowns in both divisions.

Coach Jimmy LeCain's crowd from the North of the Granite City had an indifferent record of 10-4 moving into the court carnival. From all appearances, the North crew, beaten twice by Quincy, had gained this place through its twin victories over Brockton. But they had the fighting touch that the crowd loves and they just wouldn't be eliminated regardless of the roughhouse opposition.

North just doesn't seem to be up to Somerville's slick outfit for this second series of Class A eliminations, but it's very safe to say that the defending champions will have trouble on their hands all the way. Bob Whitelaw, Jack White, Paul Clem, Pete Creedon and Dan Dunlop won't give up until the final whistle and Coach Vin Cronin can depend on that.

Somerville, in eliminating Quincy, showed beyond a doubt that it was the class of the tourney. Coach Cronin's merry sextet, with the lanky, laughing Bob Goodwin dropping them through the basket, should carry through all the way in a repetition of last year. The entire group of Bob Pugatch, Al Perry, George Hughes, Rudy Antonelli, Ed Colbert and Goodwin are play-makers and marksmen all the way down the line.

Haverhill's healthy following insists that the Essex County champions just had an off night against New Bedford, but they'll be back stronger than ever in the Brockton meeting. But even in winning by its lowly margin, Coach Charlie White's outfit proved masterful defensive players in holding the Whalers to a new low in tourney play.

Pics Seek 3d in Row In Playoff at Arena

By BILL SMITH

Still unbeaten in the United States Amateur Hockey Ass'n play-offs, the Boston Olympics will strive to keep their slate clean when they face the New York Rovers at the Boston Arena tonight in the first of a two-game series here. The second game goes on tomorrow night, also at the Arena.

The Pics wound up the Eastern amateur season by dropping a 8-1 verdict to the Philadelphia Falcons Wednesday night but have yet to taste defeat in two playoff starts.

Goalie Maurice Courteau, who tended the nets against the Falcons in Wednesday's finale, will be replaced by Harvey Bennett according to the latest plans of Coach Hago Harrington.

If the Boston sextet sweep the double-header against New York on hme ice and then come through with another win in a Sunday night game in Gotham, it will have a commanding lead of five games in the 12-game playoff series.

Murray Henderson will hold down a defense position for the Olympics during the two games against New York, but is due to report back to the Bruins for the important clash with the Chicago Black Hawks at the Garden Sunday night.

The Pics have already downed Baltimore and Washington in two prior tilts and are after the scalps of the Rovers.

A game originally scheduled against the Falcons in Philadelphia, March 31, has been advanced to March 20 and the site has been shifted to the Garden, giving the Pics seven home games in the important series.

Newsome to Play For Sox in '45

Lamar "Skeeter" Newsome, Red Sox shortstop, today informed General Manager Eddie Collins from his home in Atlanta, Ga., that he had been given the O. K. to play baseball this summer by his draft board.

Newsome was recently examined and passed at Ft. McPherson and subject to call for duty. Now that Skeeter has been given the green light, one of Manager Joe Cronin's biggest problems has been solved, for the loss of this brilliant infielder would have raised havoc with the Sox pennant chances.

Newsome has been the victim of two beanings resulting in two fractures of the skull. As a result his hearing has been impaired.

A five-game city series between the Braves and Red Sox, with the Sunday date on April 15 a Red Cross fund game, will start the baseball season here.

The series games will be played on April 11, 12, 13, 14 and 15, with the first three games at the Wigwam and the final two at Fenway.

Interest in baseball appears so high despite the absence of many stars that it is expected that a large sum will be realized for the Red Cross from the Sunday windup game.

Frank McCool Rookie of Year

DETROIT, March 9 (AP)—Coach Frank Boucher of the New York Rangers today named Goalie Frank McCool of the Toronto Maple Leafs his choice for rookie of the year in the National Hockey League.

"McCool hasn't much chance for the Vezina trophy for goalies because Will Durnan of the Canadiens has that safely in hand," said Boucher. "But Frank's work entitles him to some honor and I would call him the season's best newcomer."

FENTON IN NEW BERTH

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 9 (AP)—Jimmy Fenton, former Auburn grid star and backfield mentor, is now athletic director and football coach at Starke University School, succeeding Army-bound Luke Whetstone.

Injuries to Mario, Crawford Peril B's

By BILL GRIMES

Well, from where we sit, it looks like the Bruins' chances of getting into the Stanley Cup series went out the window last night, when Frankie Mario and Jack Crawford were so badly hurt playing against the Canadiens in the Montreal Forum that they are on their way home today, if the doctors permit Mario to leave the hospital.

In the first period, Mario and Frankie Eddolls, who in the opinion of some authorities is the French club's best defense man, crashed on the boards. Eddolls was carried off the ice on a stretcher and, along with Mario rushed to a hospital. After a hasty checkup on Eddolls, the club doctor announced he had suffered a broken leg. X-rays will be taken today to determine the extent of Mario's injury.

Later in the game, Jack Crawford was cross checked and received a painful wrist injury. After the game, Coach Clapper called Manager Art Ross and reported the Crawford incident. Gino Rozzini and Armand Gaudreault will leave for Toronto today and when the Bruins take on the Maple Leafs tomorrow night, Bill Thoms will be on the defense paired with Pat Egan.

In the event that Crawford and Mario are unable to play in the Chicago series, the Bruins are "dead pigeons." At top strength they wouldn't have been favored to take the Harks. So, what are their chances without Crawford and Mario? Nil.

The Rossmen played a grand game against the Canucks last night. Before the club left for Montreal, Mgr. Art Ross ordered Coach Dit Clapper to shake up the forward lines. He assigned Jack McGill to center on the first line between Herbie Cain and Bill Jennings, returned Mario to the Typhoons and had Bill Cowley work between Bill Thoms and Paul Gladu on the third line.

The Bruins were trailing 0 to 1 going into the final period, Elmer Lack having scored an unassisted goal in the middle chukker. But, "Butch" Bouchard and Kenny Mosdell counted for the Frenchmen early in the final session putting the Canucks out in front 3 to 0.

Hawks Playoff Chances Bright

By the Associated Press

Chicago's playoff hopes in the National Hockey League brightened today as the Boston Bruins and New York Rangers continued their downward trend.

While the Blackhawks were idle, New York fell before Detroit, 7-3, and Boston dropped a 3-2 verdict to Montreal in last night's games.

The Bruins muffed a chance to take undisputed possession of the fourth and last available position in the postseason series by bowing to the first place Canadiens.

Detroit ran roughshod over the Rangers, although Bucko McDonald gave New York an early lead. Syd Howe helped Joe Carveth to his second goal in the final period, boosting his all-time point total to 515, one more than Nels Stewart's all-time mark.

With Boston and Chicago tied in points at 31 and New York close behind with 30, the schedule still favored the Bruins, who had five games to play. The Hawks had four and the Rangers only three.

Pennock to Pitch In Batting Practice

PHILADELPHIA, March 9 (AP)—General Manager Herb Pennock of the Phillies, one-time New York Yankees' pitching great, says he'll be back on the mound this season—but only to toss out a few to Phillies' hitters at practice.

He denied he planned a regular hurling stint.

WELCH SHOWS IN DETROIT

DETROIT, March 9 (AP)—A rough punching duel is expected at Olympia here tonight when George Kochan of Akron, O., and Coley Welch of Portland, Me., square off in a 10-round middleweight scrap.

Mosconi Refused $4000 Bribe

PHILADELPHIA, March 9 (AP)—Willie Mosconi, world champion, says "pool" and not "pocket billiards" is the right name for the game.

And despite anything heard to the contrary, he adds, it's "the cleanest sport going."

Several times, he says, he's been offered "as high as $4000 to throw a game," but "there isn't a tournament player who would consider it."

Hawk Drive Picks Up 9 Points on Bruins

Out along the Pacific Coast promoters of amateur teams pay the player $40 per week. But they are packing the rinks with the prices scaled from $1.20 to $3.30. But for the fact that he is very outspoken, especially while talking terms with magnates, Mike Karakas, the Chicago goal minder, would have spent more of his career in the N. H. L. For years, Mike has claimed that if the Canadian players (he's an American) would remain on their side of the border, the promoters of pro hockey would be obliged to "up" the salaries.

And, incidentally, while he was playing for the Rhode Island Reds of Providence in the American Hockey League, Karakas's salary was comparable to that of any of the N. H. L. goalies. Lou Pieri, owner of the Reds, gave Mike a big league salary but it was a worthwhile investment. It paid off in the box office.

Since the middle of last month, the Chicago Blackhawks have written off a nine-point deficit to the Bruins. The only club that has beaten them over that stretch is Detroit, who knocked them off on both ends of a home and home series. They have tied and beaten the Canucks, shut out the Bruins, battled to a draw with Toronto and have taken Rangers over the hurdles in New York and Chicago.

It's probably just as well that Bill Tobin, instead of his predecessor, is the boss man of the Blackhawks, otherwise Manager Paul Thompson, who has been out scouting in Western Canada, would be out of the organization, replaced by Johnny Gottselig, who has handled the club during most of the recent spurt.

It's difficult to keep out of trouble while playing with the most penalized club in the league. Referees are alert looking for rule infractions when officiating games in which Les Canadiens are contending. So, it will be a mistake if Buddy O'Connor, Canadiens' second center, isn't awarded the Lady Byng Trophy, over Billy Mosienko, Clint Smith, or Cully Dahlstrom of the Blackhawks, none of whom has been penalized this season.

Gordie Drillon, who broke into the N. H. L. with the Maple Leafs and was sold to Les Canadiens after he had been "benched," during the finals of the 1941-42 Stanley Cup series, is playing with the Valleyfield Braves, an amateur club. He hopes Dick Irvin remembers that he's still the property of the French club and will recall him for the coming playoffs.

After losing three straight to the Red Wings in that Stanley Cup series, Coach Hap Day soured on Gordie Drillon and "Bucko" MacDonald and yanked them out of the line up. Then, the Maple Leafs went out, took four straight from the Red Wings and annexed the world's championship.

Win Green, the Bruins' trainer deluxe, didn't make this trip with the club. He's getting ready to go to the Red Sox training camp at Pleasantville, N. J. and has arranged a heavy conference for today with Manager Joe Cronin, who arrived home last night from Florida. Hamie Moore, the Olympics' trainer, is with the Bruins.

Just for the record. Out of the 48 games he played while setting up an all time N. H. L. point record of 82 points last season, Herbie Cain was on Bill Cowley's line in just one-half of those contests. Injuries kept Cowley out of 14 games and Cain had other play makers in the other 10 games.

Grant Warwick, the flashy Ranger right-winger, who has been dissatisfied all season because of the unfairness of his contract, received permission to visit his brother, who was fatally injured, in Montreal. Instead of returning to New York, Warwick went home to Regina, Saskatoon, and wired his wife, who was in New York, to join him. He's probably through for the year.

English High Rules Big Track Favorite

English High School, although trailing in points from the field events and the relays, will be a decided favorite to repeat in the annual Reggie meet to be held tomorrow afternoon at the Armory . . . English sent a total of 28 qualifiers romping into the finals against 16 for East Boston, district titlist, running in second place . . . Technical has the edge in points, with 45, but only 11 boys in tomorrow's finals.

And to top off another big Saturday for the schoolboys there'll be a pair of coaches' meetings in the afternoon . . . the Mass. Coaches Ass'n will gather at the Hotel Lenox . . . the private school mentors will meet at the Harvard Club.

But basketball is the sport drawing the crowds . . . the Tech Tourney at the Garden last night had over 10,000 fans in the stands for a new record for drawing power in New England basketball . . . and with the exception of the Haverhill-New Bedford tilt, they saw some swell schoolboy play . . . with at least five high school bands adding color to the program with their jitterbugging cheer leaders.

Durfee High, under Coach Luke Urban, was on fire for the first half against Brockton, but then added . . . Durfee used the Rhode Island State style of play, sending its forwards romping down the floor in all-out offensive . . . Roger Sullivan and Fred Kozak, spearheading the attack, paid big dividends for the first half . . . but Brockton's Dick Lindgren put out the fire.

Haverhill had little trouble stopping New Bedford's attack . . . and it wasn't such a tough assignment with 5.3 inch Joe Bettencourt and 5.4 inch Joe Perreira at the Whalers' forwards . . . But that little Bettencourt was "trouble" all night long . . . and lanky Jerry Brault was by far the outstanding defensive player of the eliminations . . . New Bedford had eliminated Haverhill in three previous tourneys.

Bill Asks Tax On All Sports

Creation of a Massachusetts athletic commission to replace the present boxing and racing commissions was proposed today in a bill filed in the Legislature by Rep. Enrico Cappucci (D.) of Boston.

The bill calls for imposition of a 5 per cent tax on gross receipts at all sports events including horse and dog racing, boxing, wrestling, hockey, football, baseball, tennis, golf, yacht racing or any other sports events for which admission was charged.

The commissioner would receive $6000 a year and would be authorized to appoint whatever number of deputy commissioners were necessary and assign them to sporting events.

The commissioner would be appointed by the Governor for a 3-year term and deputies would hold office for one year at annual salaries of $3500.

The Cappucci bill will be submitted to the rules committee of both branches of the Legislature which will decide whether or not it will be considered at this session.

TODAY'S HONOR ROLL OF CASUALTIES

"... When the black tide scatters, wings well broken, wheels worn down at last, long-tongued folk may talk of many matters; we shall know the name of him who stood and bore the blast."—(G. D. Martineau.)
